Orchard St. extension bonds OK'd

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Village Board has accepted a 6.4 percent bid on $1.5 million in bonds to finance the extension of Orchard St. from Main to Depot streets.

The Board authorized the sale of the bonds in August, thereby beating an Oct. 1 deadline imposed by the Illinois Legislature that mandates that all municipal bonds be sold.

The money will be used to construct the Orchard St. extension and an access road and acquire real estate.

Trustee Donald Amundsen, who was the sole voice dissenting against the bonds being sold in the first place, cast another vote Monday in disfavor of the bonds' bid. Amundsen has said he feels the Village cannot afford the $1.5 million debt at this time and resents the Oct. 1 deadline imposed by the state.

But other Board members have supported the sale of the bonds, saying that the Village has been planning the street extension for too long not to go through with it.

Taxes are not expected to go up because of the bonds.

According to the bond ordinance, the alternate revenue source general obligation bonds will be repaid from sales and motor fuel tax, not from property taxes.

Under the plan, Orchard St. will be extended east of Main St. to Depot St.

Supporters say the new road will allow for access to parking and new development.

Construction could begin as early as spring 1992.

Corporate purpose bonds totaling $365,000 have already been approved for related downtown improvements.

Mayor hospitalized

Get well wishes go out to Mayor Robert Wilton, who was scheduled for triple bypass heart surgery Wednesday.

Wilton, 57, reportedly became ill last week. Tests revealed he had suffered a mild heart attack.

The mayor was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Milwaukee for surgery.

Assessments go computerized

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

Residents seeing a higher number of assessed properties listed in last week's paper than what they typically have seen better get used to it.

The Antioch Assessor's Office is computerized now, and all recorded changes are required to be published.

"I'll be doing it every year," said Antioch Assessor Cliff Houghton.

In the past, assessments for the area were done by hand. This rather tedious method required that some assessments be passed along to the county.

The county would make assessment changes across-the-board, said Ken Larson, Lake County Supervisor of Assessments.

The computerized method should make assessments more accurate to particular areas, Larson said.

"We were putting it (assessment value increases) on across-the-board, and hopefully he'll (Houghton) be putting it on where it's needed," Larson said.

He said computerization "tends to really put the burden where the activity is or where the market value increases."

This year, for example, the county would have increased Antioch valuations by 8.5 percent. But Houghton has increased valuations somewhere around 6 percent and 10 percent, Larson said.

Long-time residents are used to seeing (Continued on Page 8)

'Quote of the week'

'I am not a friend of the court. The people who come here for court tear out our fixtures and plug the toilets. They treat our building like animals.'—Kenneth Hamsher

Decries court use

FOX LAKE—“I am not a friend of the court,” declared Trustee Kenneth Hamsher, referring to space rented by the county in the village hall for Branch Circuit Court. “The people who come here for court tear out our fixtures and plug the toilets. They treat our building like animals,” observed the feisty trustee who voiced opposition to renewing a lease with the county that comes due Nov. 30. “I will not sign a new contract. This is a waste of space,” Hamsher asserted to describe the $6,975 rent paid by the county for a small office and use of the council chamber for 93 court days per year.

Subdivision plan wins approval

GURNEE—A Gurnee Trustee expressed his concerns about the availability of affordable housing in the village. Trustee Bob Amaden said it is a “real dilemma”. The board approved a 72-acre planned unit development by Lexington Homes, west of Hunt Club Rd. and south of the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way. Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton said through the village's comprehensive plan, a percentage of housing types are included. “The best chance for affordable housing is in townhomes,” Welton said. The PUD for Lexington's Rosewood plan reduced the number of units from 139 to 134.

Mobile home hearing is Sept. 30

WAUKEGAN—Lake County residents who reside in mobile homes will be able to give legislators a piece of their mind Sept. 30. A hearing will be held at the Waukegan Public Library from 7 to 9 p.m. with members of the state housing committee. The committee is conducting hearings on several housing related laws proposed in Springfield.

Mayor hospitalized for heart surgery

ANTIOCH—Mayor Robert Wilton reportedly took ill last week and was hospitalized after tests revealed he had suffered a mild heart attack. Wilton, 57, was scheduled to undergo triple bypass heart surgery Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital in Milwaukee.

Hospital breaks ground for addition

ZION—American International Hospital broke ground Sept. 25 for a new $20 million, five-story care facility to be constructed adjacent to the hospital in Zion. The 78,000 square foot, 95-bed facility will be completed in 1993. The present hospital will be renovated into office space for support departments. American International is a general acute care hospital which specializes in cancer care. The hospital's cancer care program attracts patients from throughout the nation. The current facility was constructed in 1958 and has been owned and operated by American International since 1975.

Arrest in attorney's murder upheld

WAUKEGAN—An associate circuit court judge has ruled that the arrest warrant issued for George Goodman, who is accused of being an accomplice in the murder of Lake County attorney Robert Snook Jr., was valid and that the judge who signed it wasn't prejudiced at the time. Goodman's counsel has argued that there was no probable cause to issue an arrest warrant in the April 27 murder of Snook. Snook was abducted at a car wash and taken to a secluded area of Rollis Road, where he was shot and then hit with his own car, police said. Goodman and Charles Ratzke are facing the death penalty if convicted of Snook's murder.

Banned book week at area libraries

LAKE ZURICH—The Ela Area Public Library and Wauconda Area Public Library have long held strong opinions opposing censorship. From Sept. 28 through Oct. 5 they will display banned books as part of National Banned Books Week. The exhibit is entitled “Celebrating the Freedom to Read.” Books such as Little Red Riding Hood, My Friend Flicka and the Bible are included in the exhibits.

Coroner's inquest favors homicide

ISLAND LAKE—Lake County jurors in a recent coroner's inquest heard at least three hours of testimony before turning in a verdict of homicide in the Island Lake drowning of 2-year-old Tanya Cisek of Chicago. Island Lake resident Chris Drufke, who witnessed the event and testified at the inquest, said, “I can't believe this came back homicide, but the woman (Cisek's mother) is nuts in my opinion. While the paramedics were trying to revive the kid, she just kept saying ‘Jesus wanted her’ and walked away. She didn't have any interest in the death.” The matter was referred to the McHenry County State's Attorney's office where it is under investigation. Officials declined to say if they would prosecute.

Residents fight for Roney countryside

WAUCONDA—John Pikarski, a Chicago attorney representing 30 residents who say they are affected by development of the Roney farm, has vowed to fight to keep the property countryside. Wauconda Township Supervisor Jerry Beyer backs the position but said, “There's one thing for certain: you'll never stop development. It's just everyone wishes it were a lower density.” The Zoning Board of Appeals will hear Pikarski's case Oct. 17.

Board of Education faces busing issues

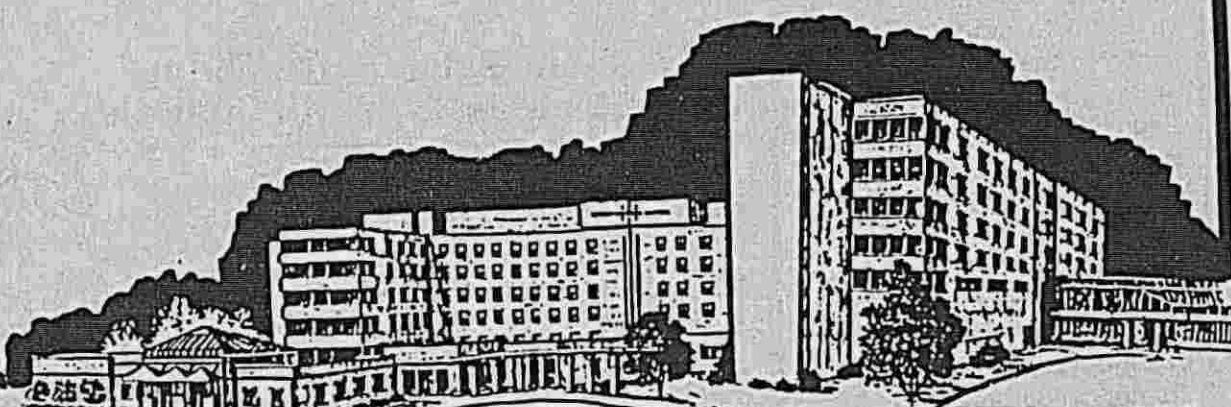

ROUND LAKE—Busing kindergartners to a new classroom facility in the Round Lake Area Library has parents upset over lengthy bus rides. The decision to move the younger students was based on the need of cafeteria and playground facilities for older students. The district would not have to provide additional lunch/recess facilities if kindergartners met in the library for their half-day classes. Though the new facility, designed by the district's architect, opens needed classrooms in the district, parents want a solution to the long morning bus rides to the library. “The concern is that children are being bused farther away from their homes than they have to,” said Pam Axle, parent.

Recycle manual available

The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County, Illinois (SWALCO) has published a Recycled Products Manual for all Lake County local governments. It was developed for the Agency in conjunction with Becker and Associates of Deerfield. "This guide will assist all of our communities in purchasing recycled products" said Robert W. Depke, Chairman of SWALCO. The manual will be distributed to all Lake County local governments as a public service. "This is one more step in the implementation of our Solid Waste Management Plan" Depke said.

The 28 page document provides a "how to" approach to those who are considering the purchase and use of recycled materials. "This is an excellent tool" Depke said. It offers a real hands on approach of how to purchase these items" he said. The Illinois Solid Waste Planning and Recycling Act requires county recycling programs to promote the use of products made from recovered or recoverable materials.

The manual comes complete with a list of Illinois companies that produce recycled products. A sample resolution is also included to assist municipalities in establishing their support for the purchase of these items. The list includes over forty items that are available as recycled products including everything from automotive oil to traffic signs.

For more information on the guide and its use contact the Lake County Administrator's Office at 360-6475.

Mayor declares October as GFWC Illinois Junior Month

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch, in conjunction with the General Federation of Women's Club's Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs Junior Org., has proclaimed October as GFWC Illinois Junior Month.

The proclamation was made in recognition of the contributions made by the Village's five-year-old Antioch Junior Women's Club.

"It's a club where everyone gets together and we do different things for our community and outside of our community," said Linda Pedersen, president of the Antioch Junior Women's Club.

Pedersen was a founder of the club, which has grown from 10 original members to the current 52 members.

The club meets every second Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m. at First National Bank of Antioch, 485 Lake.

Members must be at least 18 years old and attend two consecutive meetings. In addition, prospective members must agree to serve one ways-and-means project during the year.

Those projects include fund raisers, such as selling mums, selling ornaments or working at the upcoming Centennial Man contest.

Monies raised through the fund raisers are donated to organizations inside and outside of the community.

The Antioch Junior Women's Club has donated to the Antioch Rescue Squad, local schools and the fire department.

One of its most popular fund raisers, Pedersen said, is the ornament sale, which features pewter ornaments depicting a Village landmark.

Past ornaments have featured the saw mill, the Rescue Squad and the high school. This year's ornament will depict the old train depot.

In April, the Antioch Junior Women's Club will hold a Centennial Man contest in conjunction with the Village's 100th anniversary. Pedersen said the contest is open to any Antioch male age 21 to 100.

"We're hoping it will be very successful for us," Pedersen said.

The Antioch Junior Women's Club started five years ago at the urging of Pedersen's mom, Florence, who was a 10th district president.

Since then the club has grown, with most members being 18 to 40 years old. Pedersen said this is because Antioch offers a Women's Club during the daytime, but "with so many women working, it's difficult to meet."

Barbara Gannon, the club's membership chairwoman, joined three years ago after moving to Antioch. She said her favorite part of the club is "the friendships" she has made.

Gannon was part of the annual

September membership tea, which brought in 18 more prospective members.

The Antioch Junior Women's Club will celebrate GFWC Illinois Junior Week — slated for Oct. 6-12 — with an Oct. 8 dinner at the Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake.

For membership information call Pedersen at 395-1384 or Gannon at 395-3152.

Rooftop burglar apprehended

Some local merchants are breathing easier now that police have in custody a suspect who confessed to six burglaries over the summer where entry was gained through the roof.

Toby Laurie, 20, of 277 Oak Ridge Crt., Antioch, is in Lake County Jail on six counts of burglary, police said.

Laurie is suspected of taking about $1,000 in cash from six local businesses during burglaries that occurred sometime after midnight in June, July and August, police said.

"We've been working on this all summer," said Antioch Sgt. Ron Roth. "The fact that we caught him is a result of good police work."

Police were able to track down a suspect using fingerprints found at Williams Park Pool, which was burglarized twice this summer.

Other places Laurie is alleged to have burglarized are the William's Park little league stand, Antioch Pizza Shop, Lake-side Restaurant and Squires Restaurant.

Eagle Ridge plans grand opening

Fox Development announces the grand opening of Eagle Ridge of Antioch, Sunday.

Who are gifted children and what predicaments do they face?

Antioch Community High School is grappling with these issues during six seminars on gifted/talented students held every month until March.

Tim Noonan, ACHS guidance department chairman, developed the monthly program, which premiered last week.

Parents of gifted children, along with several teachers, filled the room for this initial seminar that featured a presentation by Pamela Bloom, coordinator for gifted children with the Lake County Educational Service Center.

"Every child is a gift but not all children are gifted," Bloom remarked in her opening description of gifted students.

She pointed out that gifted students possess unique characteristics. They learn more rapidly and have a stronger need to know. They have intense interests. They are more imaginative, and are truly special.

However, while these students are special, they do not receive the necessary monetary support from government bodies.

Bloom noted that gifted students differ as much from the average as do the mentally handicapped. Yet, these students, who are educationally deficient, continue to receive the majority of funding for their educational programs.

In stark contrast, funding to meet the needs of the gifted student continuously ranks near the bottom.

Reviewing a ha with her audience, E touched on several pr ing myths that often l the discrimination of students. These mytl clude:

- Everyone is gifted in way.
- Gifted children can good education on own.
- Accelerating gifted le causes them social or tional harm.

'Hot line or cold line?'—'But, teacher, I have a warm lunch!'

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
Grass Lake School

Once again, out of the mouths of babes. First grade teacher, Marilyn Bowen, sent a memo home with her students after the first full day of school and this cut little episode was included at the bottom of the page. First grade marks the first time students at Grass Lake School participate in the lunch program. Children can either order hot lunches through the school or bring a bag lunch from home. When lunch time rolled around, Marilyn attempted to have the students form two lines. One line was for students eating the hot lunch provided by the school, the other for students bringing their bag lunches from home. Marilyn referred to the two lines as the hot lunch line and the cold lunch line. However, one little student got confused and innocently stated that his lunch wasn't hot or cold, it was warm. He then inquired where was the line for warm lunches? Well, Marilyn, where was it?

W.C. Petty School

The 1991-92 school year is off to a good start at W. C. Petty School. Once again the school will be sponsoring a "Student of the Month" award program. A different topic for eligibility is focused on each month, and one student will be chosen from each grade level. This month's topic is "Citizenship" and the chosen students will be honored in an all-school assembly on Sept. 30 at 8:30 a.m.

W. C. Petty would like to extend a warm welcome to the following new staff members: Eric Willis is the new full-time physical education/computer teacher and Kathy DiPrizio is the new social worker—Welcome Aboard.

W. C. Petty School welcomes visitors. If planning a visit, call for an appointment so that your visit can be scheduled without the interruption of scheduled activities.

Hello/Thanks

I want to say 'hello' to Ed Okrezik who tells me he reads this column each week. Ed's daughter Janet went to school with my daughter, Donna. I often see Ed and his wife, Ernie, in and about town and I always enjoy chatting with both of them. Guess what, folks, I have a picture of your grandchild sitting on Santa's lap at the GLS breakfast with Santa and one of these days, I will remember to dig it out and send it to you. It really turned out cute.

Also, I would like to say 'hello' and 'thank you' to Janet Harrison for inviting me over to enjoy some tea and cake while we enjoyed a relaxing visit in her cozy home. I also enjoyed viewing her pretty flowers. Janet's daughter, Jenny, is presently stationed in the Persian Gulf and under one of her trees she has a beautiful circle of red and white flowers planted in Jenny's honor. She also planted blue ones; however, only a few popped up. Remember, Janet, it is the thought that counts and the red and white ones were beautiful on their own.

Hello, Walt

On Sept. 10, my husband and son went golfing to Spring Valley Country Club. While there they met a real nice gentleman named Walt, who joined them in their round of golf. In the course of conversation, Walt mentioned he enjoyed reading the Antioch paper and the "Hometown Goodies" column. My husband informed him that it was his good old wife who wrote it. Walt inquired as to how I got the nickname of Lizard. My husband told him from a friend. Which is not 100 percent true. Walt, Jim Schmehl Sr. and Jim Schmehl Jr. asked me to say 'hi' to you via this column; you owe a tidbit to share with all of my readers. I'll be waiting for your call.

School Board Meeting
Once again the monthly meeting of the Grass Lake School Board was well attended. The board conducted the annual budget hearing for the fiscal year 1992 and in turn approved the proposed budget. A decision on board involvement in a group policy manual development workshop, offered by I.A.S.B., was tabled until the November meeting.

The first reading on the proposed policy governing the employment of coaches was heard and discussed. The October board meeting was changed from Oct. 8 to Oct. 7. The board also voted on the proposed staffing pattern for the 1991-92 school year. Due to higher than expected enrollment figures, the board voted to have two kindergarten sections and a combined grade classroom consisting of the eighth grade class. The board voted to hire a quarter-time junior high teacher for the 1991-92 school year. The scheduled gifted program will not be offered at this time. Remember, the October meeting of the board will be held on Monday, Oct. 7 instead of Oct. 8.

AUGS News

The Antioch Upper Grade School year is off to a flying start. The school would like to extend a warm welcome to the following new AUGS staff members—Cheree Ayers is the new study skills instructor and Pam Fuson is the learning disabilities teacher. The Parent/Principal Coffee will be held on Oct. 10 at 10 a.m. If you would like to gain more information regarding your child's education program, call the Upper Grade office before Oct.

8 to make an appointment to attend the coffee. Parents will meet with Mr. Herbst and the group size will be limited in order to answer questions more easily.

Bargains for Granny

Quiz time—how many of my "faithful" and "not so faithful" readers noticed that I did not harp on garage sale experiences and bargains this spring and summer? It did not mean I wasn't out there browsing and taking advantage of all of those marvelous sales. It simply meant "The Lizard" decided to give an old topic a rest.

With fall upon us, the sales are slowly dwindling. However, young parents-to-be: the bargains available on baby items are numerous and fabulous.

Since I want my home to be a home-away-from-home for my grandchildren, I've been picking up items at garage sales to achieve this goal. Why pay $8 to $15 for a baby's sleeper when you can pick up terrific like-new ones for 10 to 50 cents.

What about a $30 snowsuit for $3 to $5? After the proper laundering techniques, who can tell the difference between the new and the almost-brand-new.

Wait until little baby Filipis gets up to play on the beautiful molded plastic climbing cube complete with slide. This particular item sold for $100 new and Granny quickly grabbed it for only $15.

Next summer I'll be able to push this new little person in my newly acquired backyard baby swing that sells for $25 new.

It sure was a lot easier for me to fork over $3 for the item. They say wisdom comes with age. Well, I am not sure that I am at the point of stupidity when I purchase the baby items for my now-grown children, brand-new, at often times outrageous store prices. On the other hand, I guess if no one ever purchased new items our economy would be in worse shape. Then what items would people be reselling at garage sales for the "Lizard" to buy?

Assessments—

multiple pages of published assessments every four years. Last year was the first time the computerized system was in effect, but it also was a quadrennial year, so no difference likely was noted.

This year is a better example of what will come, officials said.

"This is going to be pretty typical," Houghton said. "We're the biggest twp. in the county and the third largest in terms of taxable pieces property in the county."

He said Antioch has a lot of developing in a lot of parcels.

"Assessments are going to reflect what's happening in the marketplace," Houghton said. "I have looked at all the property that has been sold and resold over the last four years," and it appears to be increasing by 12 percent.

This means that the valuation of a brand new piece of property will increase by one-third in three years, he explained.

"If the trend in the last four years continues, that's what's going to happen," Houghton said.

Schroeder grant to aid CLC student

The College of Lake County announced receiving a gift of $30,000 to create a new endowment funding a journalism scholarship in the name of M.R. Schroeder, the founder of Lakeland Newspapers.

The gift was presented to CLC President Daniel J. LaVista by Lydia M. Schroeder, wife of the late publisher who was a force in Lake County newspaper publishing and civic affairs for 50 years. Schroeder died in 1986.

"My father was very community-minded and was always supportive of education," stated William H. Schroeder, publisher/president of the 14 paper community newspaper group serving Lake and Kenosha counties.

"Our family wanted to establish a scholarship so that deserving young people can advance their interest in print journalism."

The grant will be known as the M.R. Schroeder/Lakeland Newspaper Memorial Journalism Scholarship and will be awarded annually to a second year CLC student. The award covers full tuition, books and fees for one year.

President LaVista expressed his appreciation for the gift at a luncheon at Country Squire.

"The Schroeder family gift not only represents the largest endowment fund received to date by CLC, but also signifies a commitment to the difference that an investment in education can make."

Publisher Schroeder said his family looks upon the gift as an example of how the business community can support education. "I hope other Lake County business families will want to support higher education in similar ways."

Among family members on hand for the presentation was son M. Robert Schroeder, a businessman in Waukegan.

The Schroeder scholarship will be administered by the College of Lake County Foundation and will be available for the first time at the end of this academic year.

To be eligible for the scholarship, prospective applicants must intend to pursue a career in print journalism and be residents of Lake County. The scholarship will be awarded on a competitive basis to the most academically successful applicant after completing of one full year at CLC.

The late newspaper publisher was a lifelong resident of Lake County. He started his business career as a banker in Highland Park and Libertyville. He entered the newspaper field as credit manager of the Waukegan News-Sun in early 1930's. Later he became general manager of the Libertyville Independent-Register. He founded the Lakeland group in 1956.

Conservation to renovate Illinois Beach lodge

The Dept. of Conservation is negotiating a settlement with the lodge concessionaire at Illinois State Beach park that will pave the way for rehabilitating and improving the state-owned facility, Conservation Director Brent Manning announced.

"Details currently are being worked out, but the time is at hand to bring the lodge up to industry standards and to restore it to its rightful place as the premier lodging location on Lake Michigan," Manning said.

"My staff and I believe the type of renovation required necessitates the closing of the lodge, which probably will occur in early October."

Deputy Director John Comerio said the department has been involved in discussions during the last several months with lodge concessionaire Lotteo Balaco on settlement provisions to his current lease.

"Throughout this period, both Balaco and the department agreed that major renovations and improvements are needed to bring the lodge up to state health and safety codes and to hospitality industry standards," Comerio said. "We both determined the best way to meet those codes is to close the lodge."

Comerio said the Conservation Dept. is evaluating how to establish a reasonable transition period to accommodate the existing bookings through the rest of the year.

"We know closing the lodge will affect many people and we're investigating the best possible ways to handle the situation," Comerio said. "We apologize to those who will be inconvenienced."

Illinois Beach Lodge was built as a state facility in the mid-1950s, and Balaco assumed management responsibility in 1988.

Tax office to explain tax cap

"The new 5 percent tax cap has created a lot of questions for taxing districts," said County Clerk Linda Hess. "And taxing districts, as well as community groups, have asked me to send a representative to their meetings to help explain how this new law affects them. So Gene Bzdawka, Director of the County Clerk's Tax Extension Office, will be criss-crossing the county and sharing his expertise for the next few weeks," Hess continued.

"Mr. Bzdawka deals with tax matters daily," she explained, "and if anyone can help interpret this new law, it's the person who will be extending the taxes. Gene's schedule to speak at a Grant Township citizens meeting on Sept. 18; Lake County Assessors Assn. meeting on Sept. 19; Lake County Municipal Clerks Assn. luncheon meeting on Oct.

10; a meeting of Board members and Administrators from Stevenson, Aptakisic-Tripp, Kildeer Countryside, Lincolnshire, Fremont and Diamond Lake School Districts the evening of Oct. 10; and a Municipal law Seminar on Oct. 9."

Playing Jones game

Lake Forest High School teachers are wearing velvet gloves in pressing for higher pay, but the implication of their

New arm for police

A new era for local law enforcement is about to open with the establishment of an elite corps of 25 top police investigators.

Every participating police department in Lake County will identify top investigators to form a pool from which local departments can draw support and talent when a major homicide, kidnapping, police shooting or similar unusual incident takes place that requires specialized police personnel.

Known as the Lake County Major Crimes Task Force, its purpose is to assist local police departments that either do not have the manpower or personnel in sufficient quantity to handle a major investigation.

Espoused by Sheriff Clinton Grinnell for a number of years, the task force was initiated by State's Atty. Michael J. Waller and the Chiefs of Police Assn. of Lake County.

Sheriff Grinnell likens the unit to the mutual aid system employed by fire departments throughout the county when a major fire breaks out or a disaster occurs that is more than the local department can handle.

Investigative work during the first 24 hours can make or break a murder case, points out the sheriff. Identifying the areas of expertise—getting the proper talent and sufficient manpower on the job—is infinitely important.

At an organization meeting, 33 police agencies were present. The age-old "turf problem" isn't expected to be a hurdle in operations of the Task Force. The local chief still will retain control of investigative efforts.

With major crime becoming more commonplace hereabouts, there is no doubt that there is need for a pool of crack investigators who can go to work at a moment's notice. The best thing about the Task Force is that it won't cost taxpayers a cent. The sheriff's office will provide meeting space and all members of the Task Force, including the commander and two deputies, will continue to handle their regularly assigned duties at their regular pay.

The Task Force is expected to be operational by December or early 1992. By then it is hoped all police departments in the county will be participating. There's no reason why any community should want to opt out or be reluctant to support the elite group. The Task Force will be a strong new arm in the fight against crime.

demands is clear. They're playing the game of "keeping up with the Jones'."

Teachers in the North Shore bastion of gentility are in a snit because they see their pay as not being competitive with Deerfield, Stevenson and Libertyville. The board of education has offered a pay hike of seven percent, which is in line with industry standards, while the teachers are asking for 9.8 percent in pay and benefits. The interesting thing is that sentiment in Lake Forest seems to be on the side of the teachers.

The argument can easily be made that Lake Forest is the home of the mythical Jones family everyone talks about. While it appears that the school board is conducting business responsibly, it is somewhat surprising that neighboring districts are setting the pace. Even so, the district hasn't been treating its faculty in shabby style. A beginning teacher at Lake Forest earned $25,330 last year while a beginner at Deerfield High is earning $28,163 this year. Top pay last year at Lake Forest was $60,380 while Deerfield is topping out this year at $67,294.

What in the world is happening when Lake Forest can't keep up with the Jones? Kinda makes you choke up, doesn't it?

Living on edge doesn't mean we're one

by BILL SCHROEDER

After spending most of my life living near the outer reaches of suburbia, the edge of the commuter line, you like I may be surprised that we just might be in line to become part of America's newest sociological phenomenon—the "edge" city.

Sociologists and urbanologists are agog over the concept describing what's going on out here where the air is clean and there is greenery in generous quantity. U.S. News and World Report describes an edge city as "a 21st-century information-age, middle-class place that almost never matches political boundaries on a map." Sound familiar?

Edge cities have a lot of offices, at least one good-sized mall, world class department stores and dozens of specialty shops. Edge cities draw people like a magnet. No matter how sprawling or disjointed, the edge city is perceived as one place, according to U.S. News. In the not too dim dark past, the edge city might have been a village or a cow pasture. Mostly it is new.

Aha! Are we on our way to becoming an edge city? To answer that, reinforcements were needed. I called my former tennis partner, John Lumber, head of sociology at College of Lake County, for help. Lumber said the world of sociology is swirling just like everything else these days. He's going to investigate.

Taking a hard look at edge cities, America's population shifts have resulted in places like King of Prussia, outside Philadelphia; Tysons Corner, Va.; Las Colinas, west of Dallas, and Irvine, Calif., a spot I remember as a cluster of model homes during a motor trip to California 25 years ago. These cities are larger than well known metro areas like Memphis and most state capitols.

Edge cities seem to be characterized by glitzy high rises, upscale homes, lots of activity and bumper-to-bumper traffic. Because we don't have high rises—yet—I concluded we don't qualify as edge cities. Naperville and Schaumburg might be on the way. Can Gurnee and Buffalo Grove be far behind?

One expert insists that Americans are fleeing the cities. The middle class is inventing its own kind of city, the U.S. News writer recounted. The writer expressed confidence that the next phase for edge cities will be the arrival of "civilization." I took that to mean culture as in art museums and symphony orchestras.

So, don't hold your breath. While we might be living on the edge, we haven't arrived as an edge city. And the best part is maybe we never will. Our style is more sports bars and discount stores. I'm just not ready for glass elevators and people movers.

Benefitting builders

Editor:

HB 1448 that Gov. Jim Edgar wisely vetoed would require Mundelein and all other municipalities in Lake Co. with sewage treatment plants to accept septic system sludge from anywhere in the county for treatment. The bill stated: "The fee charged by the facility for accepting such sludge shall not exceed the reasonable costs of handling, treatment and disposal, and any additional capital costs incurred specifically to comply with this Section."

This bill passed both houses. How did this bill get through both houses without Lake Co. municipalities being notified of its consideration? Somebody was asleep at the switch!

The bill was obviously promoted and introduced for builders in unincorporated areas that have no sewer connections and are on septic systems. This has been a Lake Co. problem, so the bill was probably introduced for the builders benefit, again at the expense of the public.

Popularity of tax cap seems to be spreading

by JOHN S. MATIJEVICH
State Representative

When the legislature returns for its veto session in late October, you can expect it to consider extending property tax caps to Cook County. Usually, the legislature limits the short session to veto matters only, but passage of the tax cap for the collar counties has put pressure on Cook County legislators to enact some form of tax limitation.

Already, Senate President Philip Rock, who had opposed the curbs during the Spring Session, has indicated that he will not block attempts to impose tax caps for Cook County. Also, all legislators received a copy of a letter sent to Rock and House Speaker Michael Madigan by Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes supporting tax cap legislation in the veto session. His proposal would be a five percent cap for all local governments except elementary and secondary education districts which would have a seven percent cap the first year and five percent for subsequent years.

The fact that the extension of the property tax cap is likely to be heard means that Republicans have won the perception issue and tax cap is a buzz word that has captured voter support. It remains to be seen whether that sentiment will continue next year when voters find that their tax bills increase beyond the limitations.

Rock made a good point when he said that enacting tax caps isn't the only answer in limiting spending by local governments. He said that we have too many governments, and he's right. Illinois has over 6,500 taxing districts, more than any other state, and double that of its nearest competitor, Pennsylvania.

The problem is that reducing local government taxing districts isn't easy. We tried to enact a system of consolidating school districts and that was repealed after grass-roots opposition. School districts erupted a furor based on losing local control of the legislature reacted quickly.

Last session, a bill to allow voters in Cook County townships in a referendum to determine whether they want to abolish their township government was defeated. The measure was lobbied against by the Township Officials of Illinois and was doomed from the start. I voted for it because I thought that the voters should have the opportunity to abolish a local government if they feel that there is duplication and the services are provided by the county or municipality.

When I supported the collar county tax cap legislation, I warned that it wasn't the complete answer. Surely, the Illinois Taxpayer Federation study which gave us in Lake County the dubious distinction of having the highest per-person property tax burden proved what we already knew—that skyrocketing property valuations were causing excessive property tax bills. It is extremely unfair in areas adjacent to newly developed up-scale subdivisions. Too many people on fixed incomes find the rising tax burdens unmanageable.

The main problem is that we must find another means to finance elementary and secondary education. When we take the funding of education off of the backs of property taxpayers, then we'll have real property tax relief.

Politically Speaking

TRUSTEE SURFACES

Missing Round Lake Beach Trustee Andrew Sanders surfaced last week. He made a rare village board meeting to vote on a key financial matter.

Sanders has attended only a handful of meetings since being elected last spring.

He apparently made a detour from his new address in Kent, Wash., the Netherlands (which he visits as part of his job) and other locations in the United States to which his job takes him. For an electronics engineer, Sanders sure gets around.

Although the village sent a final water bill to his home in Washington state, he still claims Round Lake Beach residency.

Sanders may just remain a trustee until next spring. Apparently Mayor Carl Schrimpf and the other trustees don't care where Andy is, just as long as there is a quorum for semi-monthly committee and board meetings.

As for the voters, they are getting just what they deserve. Sanders played much the same game while a member of the Round Lake school board before jumping ship to get an elective job that pays money. School board members don't get greenbacks.

TOO BIG FOR JOB

It looks like Buffalo Grove's assistant village manager will stick around awhile.

Lee Szymborski was the top choice for the job of city administrator in South Milwaukee, a suburb of its namesake city. There were 118 applicants. He turned it down.

It wasn't for the money because he knew the $48,000 to $51,000 salary range when applying. His job now pays $53,000 per year.

Rather, it was the job itself. Being an administrator in a strong mayoral Wisconsin city is one step above a go-fer. He cited the administrative structure of the job among reasons for turning it down.

Wisconsin's loss is Buffalo Grove's gain. But everyone must realize that Szymborski is getting too big to remain in Buffalo Grove much longer.

EDGAR'S IN TOWN

Congressman John Porter (R-Wisconsin) of the 10th Dist. will take a back seat at Saturday's annual meeting of the Lake County Republican Federation. The get together of party faithful will be at the Meadows 21 restaurant in Libertyville.

Usually, Porter is the guest speaker at the program attended by mostly Republican precinct committeemen to elect officers for the coming year.

Not this year. Gov. Jim Edgar was invited—and accepted. Edgar did well in Lake County when he ran last year. Now, he is back. Maybe to thank people, possibly to apologize for his hated tax cap.

Attendees are waiting to hear his pitch for some of the unpopular tax reforms he has pushed. That, alone, makes this a "must" meeting.

Edgar will have to pull a rabbit from his hat to top last year's speaker. Sharon Sharp of the Illinois State Lottery gave everyone free instant win tickets.

POLICE BROUHAHA

Lake Zurich Mayor James Kay has another hot potato on his hands. With a divided village board, that doesn't make life any too easy for a man who came to office two years ago with the agenda of making this a quieter, more beautiful, less political community.

The latest brouhaha involves Kay's appointment of Sg. Wayne Parlberg as acting police chief. The 17-year member of the department was named when James Glogovsky resigned following a heart attack.

At least three, possibly four trustees, say the village should have looked outside. Kay believes in hometown talent. He says the department has lots of chief-caliber sergeants besides Parlberg.

Dissenting trustees indicate they may not approve Kay's choice when it comes up in November.

The mayor is firm. He vows to appoint Parlberg month-to-month, if necessary.

Lake Zurich has a swinging door at the fire department and village hall for out-of-town experts who use Lake Zurich as a career stepping stone.

MAKING IT LEGAL

Incorporation of Powers Lake and Nippersink as this area's newest village was dealt somewhat of a setback last month.

Genoa City village Atty. Jeff Patterson asked the court to intervene. This surprised most everyone, beginning with Genoa City trustees. They didn't authorize any such legal action. The only one who knew about the deal was village President Chuck Schuren.

His honor got the boys together and, gave the attorney the okay he needed. One trustee made a motion to keep the attorney from meddling. It failed.

OVERHEARD

HONOR LOCKED UP—Former Gov. Wm. G. Stratton has a new honor accorded him. The McHenry Locks on the Fox River have been named in his honor. The Morris native, who now lives in Chicago, showed up for the late September dedication. Stratton always got a warm election reception in this part of Illinois. Relatives still live in the Antioch, Chain o' Lakes area. NO. 1 FAN—One of the neatest campaign give aways is by County Board member Suzi Schmidt of the 4th Dist. It is a hand-size blue and yellow fan with the words: "I'm a Suzi Schmidt fan." It was a great crowd pleaser on this summer's hot days.

STOCK PICKS—A respected Wall Street money manager, James Marquez, was interviewed in USA Today about stock picks for the next six months. Among nine he expects to show 30 to 50 percent gains in that time are Dresser Industries (which has a Libertyville operation) and IMC Fertilizer of Mundelein. He projects declines for such companies as Waste Management, which has extensive Lake County holdings. That company and Browning-Ferris, which is another big waste hauler, are frowned upon by analysts as stocks to hold. Even management of those companies is selling, rather than buying, stock.

Non-readers disturbing

Editor:

I am writing in response to the "Books Don't Disturb" letter that ran on Aug. 30. The content of the letter was deeply troubling, but not very surprising. I have no doubt that there are parents not only in Wauconda, but in other sections of Lake County as well, that object to a mandatory reading assignment for their children over summer. The parents in the letter felt that making their kids read a book during the summer "would ruin family summer vacation plans."

Although the writer of the letter wished that the article in which he saw the parent's complaint was false, I have no such hope. I believe there is abundant evidence to support my position. This is what is so distressing to me.

I am disturbed by the attitude of the parents for a number of reasons. First, as a political science instructor at the College of Lake County and Harper College, I see the reluctance my students demonstrate in doing their required readings. Their book reports express their lack of reading comprehension.

Second, the SAT scores that recently came out are the lowest in the history of the test. Particularly upsetting is the fact that the Verbal section of the test was very low. A student's ability to read and comprehend what he/she has read are the tools measured in this section. The results in the Verbal clearly illustrate the fact that students aren't reading much or very well. Teaching becomes excessively difficult when your students can't read.

Third, this poor reading performance is primarily the student's fault. Parents and teachers must also be held accountable for this dismal showing. As a candidate for the Grant Twp. School Board, one of my major concerns is this reading crisis. If elected, I would do my best to see that the board does what it can to help parents and teachers in Grant Twp. ensure that our children don't add to this problem.

Extend commuter train

Editor:

The new Clean Air Act will definitely increase pressure on local governments in this area to step up efforts toward mass transit. Auto pollution is the reason why over 100 U.S. cities are in violation of clean air standard. The final result will be to cut pollution (as well as dependence on foreign oil, and offshore drilling in wilderness areas here) by moving people quickly, safely and cleanly on new and existing transit systems.

For example, Metra is readying plans to restart passenger service on the Wisconsin Central Railroad (the former Soo Line) between Antioch and Chicago, the first since 1965. This will have much benefit to western Kenosha and Racine counties, and to eastern Walworth County, in terms of reduced highway congestion and air pollution and increased convenience and quality of life for those who now must commute to the south by automobile. And those who don't commute will benefit, too; transit availability attracts quality development.

Two recent developments in Wisconsin Central plans appear very promising: the route apparently will now include an O'Hare Airport station, and will definitely be attractive to local commuters from this area who are fed up with the highway congestion to that destination. Also, the Antioch terminal is far more convenient to Wisconsinites than the earlier-planned Mundelein terminal would have been.

Actually, why should all the trains end at Antioch? With cooperation on Wisconsin's part, an early train could start from Burlington southbound, stop at Silver Lake, and then make all stops from Antioch into Chicago; and the late-afternoon train would likewise continue north of Antioch, stopping at Silver Lake and laying overnight at Burlington's handsome old brick station.

If this sounds useful to anyone, clip out this letter and mail it to State Rep. Peter Barca, Room 18 North, State Capitol, Box 8952, Madison, WI 53708. Rep. Barca is an advocate of better transportation and can certainly use input from the public towards that goal.

Lease class space

Editor:

If the Antioch High building referendum passes Nov. 5 and a new high school is built, the present ACHS campus will not be abandoned. The six area elementary feeder districts are at capacity and are interested in leasing space in the existing high school.

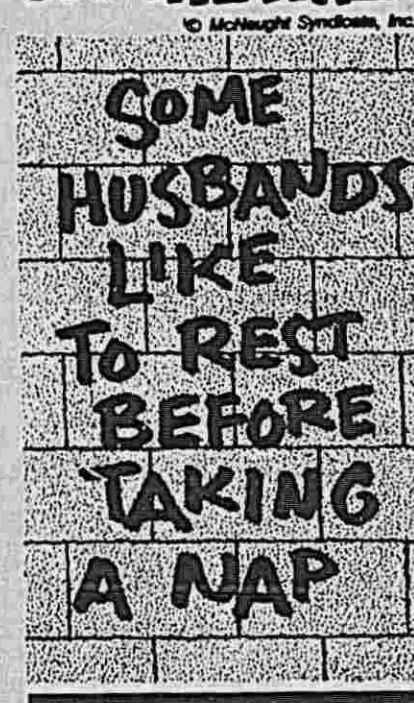

Antioch Elementary Dist. 34 cannot presently accommodate the 300 to 500 student increase expected from approved new developments. The district has signed a 10-year lease agreement with the high school.

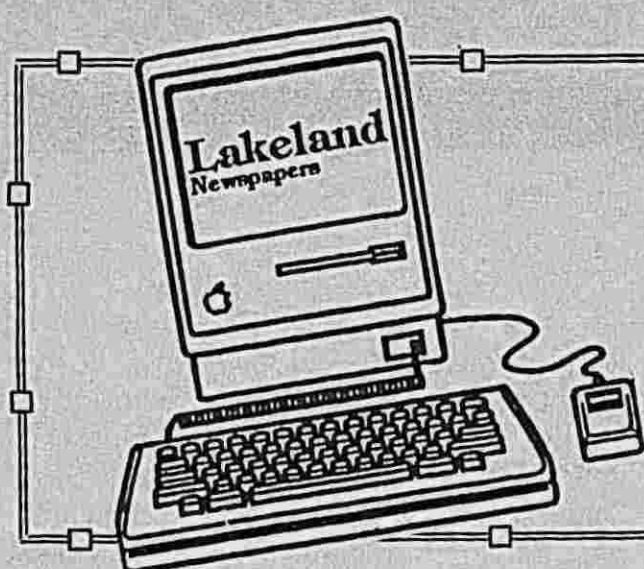

By building a new grade school or adding to existing buildings, a taxpayer in Dist. 34 will pay $67.83 to $97.93 per year. These figures are based on a $100,000 home. Leasing space for 500 students in the existing high school building will cost the same taxpayers $14.92 per year.

To have taxpayers in each feeder district bear the burden of building or adding additions when a more economic solution is available is indeed a costly boondoggle. For me the message is clear.

OFF THE WALL

FINANCIAL '91

How to make your empty nest full again

One by one your children have left home and suddenly, the home that was once a busy beehive of activity has become an empty nest. If you no longer want to maintain, heat, and pay taxes on a house that has become too big, trading down may be the answer for you. If, on the other hand, you have paid off your mortgage, you may see little reason to change residences now. Financial considerations aside, many couples simply decide that they want to keep the family home so children and grandchildren have a place to stay during vacation periods and holiday visits.

The ability to generate income from an empty nest is not limited to those who decide to sell their homes. If you choose to remain in your home, there are ways you can put that extra space to practical use—and earn income and tax savings as well. CPAs offer the following ideas for generating cash from your empty nest.

If your home is in a resort area or an area where a popular annual event attracts throngs of tourists, consider renting your home during this period. If you rent your home for less than 15 days during the year, the income you receive is tax-free. You don't even have to report it. The related rental expenses, however, will not be deductible.

Another alternative is renting an extra bedroom, perhaps to a local college student or professor. When you rent a portion of your home, the part you rent is considered rental property. This means you can depreciate the rented portion and write off some of your expenses against the rental income you receive.

Most expenses must be allocated between deductible rental use and nondeductible personal use. But expenses incurred solely for the rental portion, such as cost for painting or carpeting the rooms you rent, are fully deductible.

If you like meeting new people, you may want to go one step further and open your home as a bed-and-breakfast inn. This is a major commitment, but one that can be both enjoyable and profitable to the right proprietors. If this sounds like something you might enjoy, check local zoning laws and consult your CPA before proceeding.

Homes with specialized facilities or amenities may offer other means for generating income. For example, a gourmet kitchen can provide the perfect location for someone who would like to give cooking lessons or if you're an amateur photographer with a darkroom, someone may be willing to pay for the use of your darkroom facilities. Of course, you should talk to your insurer and financial adviser before undertaking any of these ideas.

Even an empty basement or attic or garage can bring you unexpected financial opportunities. You may be able to rent the space to someone in need of extra storage room or put that extra garage space to use by renting it to a garageless apartment dweller who wants to shelter a car. One precaution: when you rent storage space, make sure your tenant is insured against loss while his or her property is in your home.

An empty nest can provide you with many ways to generate income, become involved in new interests, and prepare for the second half of your life.

State legislators say tax cap here to stay

by RHONDA VINZANT
Lakeland Newspapers

Representatives from the Lake County chapter of the Illinois School Board Association and school districts throughout Lake County gathered Sept. 21 to discuss education and finance issues with state representatives over breakfast at Lake Zurich Community High School.

Top on the agenda for the nearly two-hour forum that followed breakfast was Senate Bill 1348, the tax cap for collar counties and its affect on Lake County schools. The ISBA sought answers from representatives on who voted for the legislation, why, and what can schools do to finance the education of their students. Other top priorities were state mandates for schools and the lack of funding to implement them.

Attending the forum were: Senator David Barkhausen, (R-30th District); Representative Robert Churchill, (R-Dist. 62) Deputy Minority Leader; Representative John Matijevich, (D-Dist. 61), Assistant Majority Leader; Representative William Peterson, (R-Dist. 60) and Grace Mary Stern, (D-Dist. 58).

People want tax relief

The bottom line on the tax cap legislation according to representatives is "that the majority of people in our communities want some sort of tax relief and they are happy about the bill. Rep. Peterson added: "I think starting with the election Gov. Edgar took on the issue of property tax relief. There is tremendous pressure from people asking for relief. They look at the schools as taking 75 percent of that and they don't feel they get the proper responses from village boards and school boards."

Representative Stern predicted, "There will be no repeal of this as long as Edgar is governor. The 1992 election will change the representative map. The whole state is against the repeal of this outrageously poor legislation. These decisions should be local, its highly inappropriate for legislative bodies to pass these type of rules." Amidst applause she added, "The public should appeal to boards whether school, parks, etc., and throw out those who don't do their duties and increase budgets annually in excess of five percent."

All of the legislators agreed that discussion and amendments to the bill are apt to be priorities in the next session but quickly added that with elections around the corner, taxpayers shouldn't expect major renovations to the bill. Rep. Matijevich added: "When people realize that this isn't tax relief there will be changes. If it's not acted on quickly, they (legislators) will adopt a tax cap for Cook County as well."

In opening the remarks from the ISBA committee member Nancy Flouret, Vice President, School Board District 113, commented, "The future of public education in the state of Illinois, is always seeking improvement with fewer resources. Lake County is a micro-cosm of the State of Illinois. We have wealthy, average and poor school districts with rapidly changing enrollments, some exploding and others declining," she continued. "The challenges in the state of Illinois can be found right here in Lake County. We are relying on you (representatives) to advocate for Lake County schools. Through input we can have impact."

"You (schools) could have been more unhappy. You got more dollars vis a vis than other state funded organization. You end up on the top of the list," said Rep. Churchill. In response to the delay in state aid payment to school districts he added: "Additional payments have been a political football for years. The first extra dollar the state has should go toward bringing that payment back on schedule."

Mandates are a problem

ISBA officials are also concerned about the mandates placed on schools by the states. "We have had 318 mandates in the a recent three year period," Flouret said to the panel. "For each state mandate, $2 of $3 spent enforcing it comes from local taxpayers. As a matter of policy the state has underfunded education and districts have become over dependent on property taxes due to lack of state funding." The State mandated programs for education have been brought about since passage of Senate Bill 730, the School Reform Act of 1985. The representatives were similar in their responses each saying they would try to limit mandates placed on school districts but as Rep. Matijevich summed up: "It can be a difficult vote. A bill appears to have good intentions and when you vote it down you have to answer to a lot of voters who see the bill as good and well-intentioned and wonder why you don't see it that way, too."

An increase in personal income taxes is seen by some as the way to finance education throughout the state. "I think we need an increase in the personal income tax regardless," said Rep. Stern. "We need to restructure the tax bases so that different services pay for themselves. Don't give away the privilege of local voting through property taxes. We have some of the finest schools in the nation and we don't want to dilute our excellence. We here in a more comfortable area must maintain a global view of the rest of the state's needs. They need different attention to education funding and excellence."

Dollmaker featured in upcoming craft show

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

A couple of trips to the White House and some national acclaim have made Sharon Frederick and her "family" the stars of several craft shows.

That will be the case when Frederick and her "Precious Little Persons" highlight the Country Charm Craft Fair at the McHenry County Fairgrounds in Woodstock Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 5-6. Over 100 exhibitors will provide a cornucopia of craft and gift ideas.

"Precious Little Persons" — original, lifelike, soft-sculpture dolls — are the toast of craft circles.

Frederick said she began making the dolls in January of 1984. Since then, she's been inundated with requests for her cuddly creations. Craft magazines, doll magazines, medical companies, advertising and publishing firms — and even the Smithsonian Institute — are on the list of admirers.

She's been commissioned to make a group of life-sized newscasters for the International Hobby Show in Washington, D.C., and an advertising firm just put in an order for 75 of her Santas.

In December of 1984, Frederick stopped at the White House to give President and Mrs. Reagan one of her baby boy dolls. Frederick said she didn't ask for a personal audience because she felt the president had enough on his mind.

"The whole staff went crazy, though," said Frederick, who lives in Sun Prairie, Wis. "They really had a fun time with it."

Frederick was back at the White House recently with a doll for President and Mrs. Bush. The Bushs were at their summer home, so Frederick plans a return trip with two gifts — a "Little Fisherman" and a puppet baby doll.

"Precious Little Persons" now reside in France, Switzerland, Canada, Germany and all over the U.S.

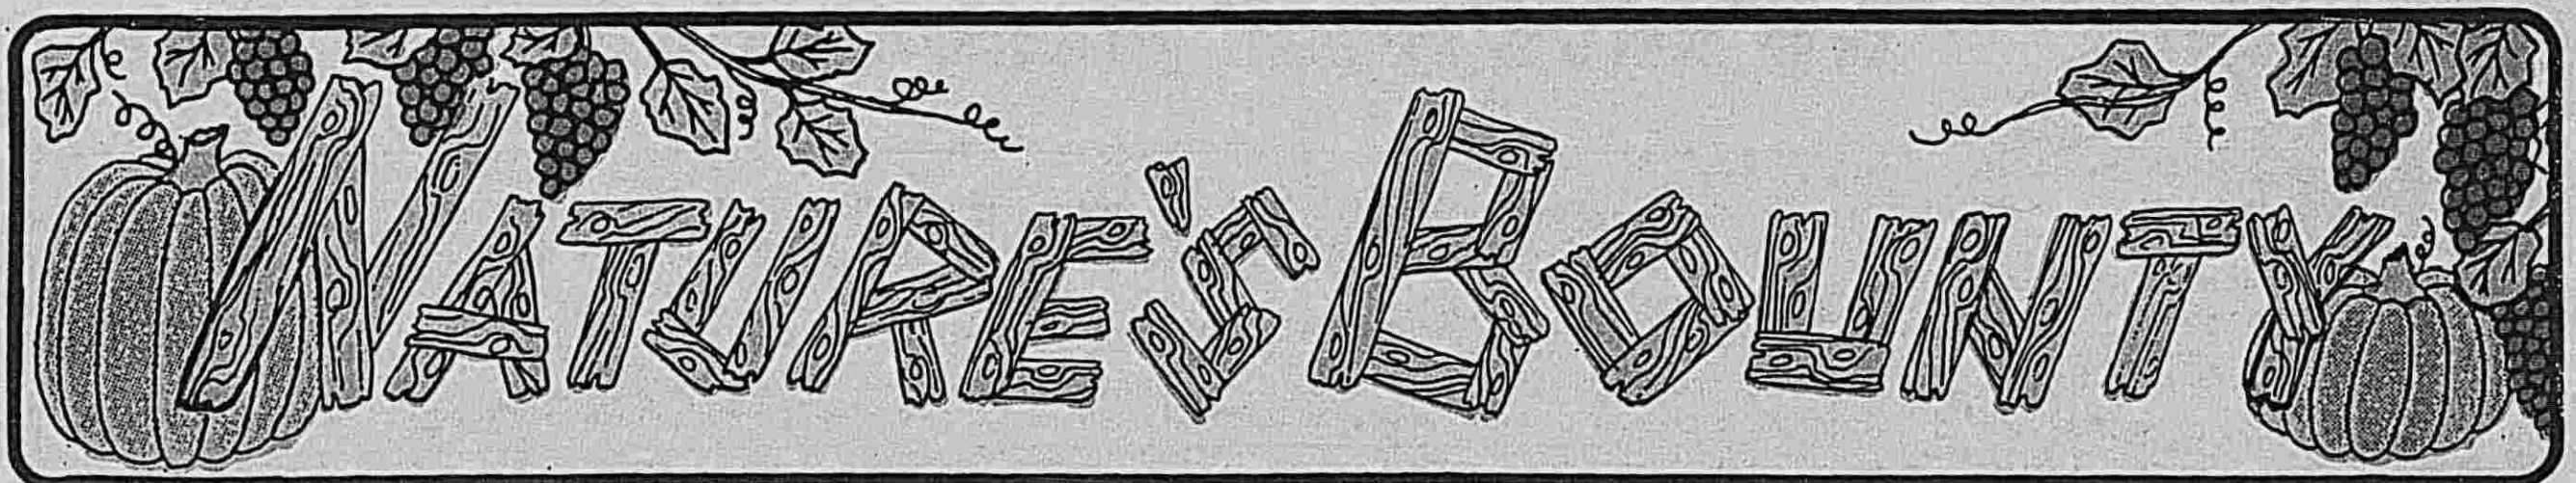

Frederick and her dolls will be on hand between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. both days of the show.

The show is being sponsored by J&V Promotions, the company started by Velma Adkins of Mukwonago, Wis. three years ago.

"This should be a pretty good show," Adkins said. "It should be one of the better shows of the year."

Here are three of Sharon Frederick's soft-sculpture dolls, "Precious Little Persons."

Task Force helps meet temporary worker needs

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Whether it be a time of economic success or a deep recession, all companies have a need, at one time or another, for additional help.

But sometimes the paperwork and benefits which have to be paid may rule out hiring someone for a couple of days.

Steve Favelli and the Highwood-based Task Force are out to clear away those hurdles. "We were looking for a business which could survive in a recessionary period. We can supply workers to different companies and we pay their cost of workman's compensation," Favelli said.

The firm has been active since March, and now has some 50 people working such jobs as landscape, cleaning, construction, etc. "We try to pick people who are suitable for their jobs or who have done them before," Favelli, a Highwood resident, said. On one such job, the workers can earn $33,000 for work on a driveway. The North Shore home will feature a driveway made up entirely of bricks in the shape of fans. At another project using Task Force personnel, Classic Care of America helps supplement its work force. The firm has both residential and commercial customers. Fees begin at $9 per hour, depending on the job and level of skill.

Customers have input on how a worker performs. "Most of our customers have been very pleased," Favelli, age 37, said.

Favelli has a background in operating restaurants as well as construction.

While some people who use Task Force service to gain jobs, others use it to supplement their income. "I see incredibly talented people. Some of them are from Mexico, and performed highly-skilled and artistic labor there. Here, they are willing to take anything at all for a day's work. I hate to see their talent go to waste,"

Favelli said.

The workers do receive overtime pay if they work more than 40 hours a week. "I have a lot of people who started with us in March and are still with us," Favelli said.

Ready for work

Some of Task Force's 50 employee work force reports for another day on the job. The Highwood-based Task Force was created by Steve Favelli. It helps employers find employees for temporary needs. Most jobs have been in landscape and construction work. For more information on Task Force, call (708) 432-7174.

Baltic farms endorse U.S. breeding stock

When Latvian agricultural leaders decided to build a beef cattle industry, they turned to a prominent Black Angus breeder and exporter from Grayslake for help.

Jerry Helgren of Picket Fence Farm, a Lake County landmark Angus breeding operation for more than a quarter of a century, was one of the first American business persons to arrive in Riga, the Latvian capitol, after the Baltic nation declared its independence from Soviet Russia.

Helgren reported that Latvian leaders are looking to agriculture to revive an economy that has stagnated under Communist dominance.

They want to establish a thriving beef industry as quickly as possible.

During a week's stay, Helgren met with prospective buyers and gave beef cattle seminars. The trip was successful as several breeder placed orders for cattle deliveries in the near future.

"Getting into the country was an experience. Things are moving so fast that passports and visas aren't available. The airport was crawling with armed soldiers and business people from all over the world. I finally obtained some papers--handwritten by a clerk after I explained my business," Helgren related.

Getting orders was only part of the transition. Arranging for payment was another major obstacle. Latvia does not yet have currency. The ruble is worthless. Helgren said he expects to get paid with American dollars that the Baltic nation will obtain through foreign aid.

Helgren said Black Angus breeding stock is being bought in lots of 200, the number of cattle that will fit into a 747. The noted exporter has shipped Angus to Australia and other parts of the world.

Building Baltic herds

Jerry Helgren, left, of Picket Fence Farm, Grayslake, and Bernie Scheer of Howell, Mich., meet with Gatis Kruze, center, deputy minister of Agriculture of the Republic of Latvia. Helgren, nationally known exporter of Black Angus beef cattle, arranged shipment of cattle of Latvia where beef herds are being rebuilt following independence.

Computers take on drafting

Computer terminals have replaced the drafting room at Pat Stagg & Son Inc., which offers home and room addition planning for the general public and architects.

Pat Stagg began his career as a carpenter 31 years ago building counter tops at a formica shop in Long Lake. He moved on to a cabinet shop in Libertyville, but eventually the fumes and dust troubled his allergies and he was forced to move to work as an outside carpenter, building and remodeling homes.

In April 1969, Stagg started his own building and remodeling business and quickly built a solid reputation.

Stagg purchased his first computer seven years ago in an effort to improve accuracy and before long saw the potential the computer gave him for plan take-offs and drawing. Stagg said this is when he became "hooked."

Stagg decided to phase out of the building and remodeling business in favor of his first love, home and room addition planning and drafting on the computer. When Stagg's business partner and son, Quinn, started to experience back problems, Stagg decided to move up the date of his business transition.

The plan take-off business is now serving 10 lumber yards in Illinois and Wisconsin and a few builders in the area. Stagg said the plan take-off business is an asset to the planning and drafting business because it allows him to see plans and ideas drawn by other people in the industry.

Stagg has been drawing for 20 years with the added advantage of having built 90 percent of everything he's drawn. His new business is catching on despite the recession and the company is building a reputation for precise, neat drawings that are structurally correct and easy to understand.

Pat Stagg, left, and son Quinn do all the drafting for their home and room addition planning business on computer.

Why a simple will may not be right for you

by ROBERT O. MIDDLETON and JANET MONTGOMERY

"All we need are simple wills. Why do you want to charge us so much to draft simple wills?" Professional estate planners every day hear this complaint along with the decision of the client to do nothing because making a proper estate plan is "too costly." Too often our response goes unheard, but here is the answer:

A simple will is not an estate plan, and every estate, even the smallest, needs a plan.

First, estate planning is concerned with planning for your family. A careful analysis and a complete plan must deal with the personal characteristics of your family and with your preferences for their care when you are no longer able to care for them.

The planning may be no simpler because your estate is modest indeed, the less one has, the more important it is to use it wisely. In order to guide your fiduciaries in managing your affairs and caring for your family, your lawyer needs to discuss your wishes with you and attempt to translate those wishes into clear instructions for those who will act on your behalf.

Second, the rules regarding inheritance of property at death vary for separate property, material property, joint tenancy property, life insurance, employee benefits and other rights; and the taxes paid at your death may depend on lifetime transactions as well as transactions at death. A lawyer can easily make a costly error if, lacking adequate information regarding the client's assets and intentions, the lawyer merely follows the client's instructions.

This way to wealth

To avoid costly errors costly for your family who pays too much tax, and costly for the lawyer who acts without sufficient information we believe in thoroughly analyzing the facts before we prepare estate planning documents or make recommendations. This takes time and effort on both our parts to make sure the plan fits the facts.

Finally, another factor involved in estate planning one which is certainly more important for you than it would be if you had a much larger estate is the desirability of minimizing the costs of estate administration at death.

Careful planning and drafting of your will or other dispositive instrument can do much to minimize the expenses of administration. For example, if you leave assets to your minor children and those assets must be administered by a guardian for their benefit, the guardian will have to file accountings with the court. Preparation and presentation of those accountings will probably cost at least a few hundred dollars.

A carefully drafted estate plan can, if you desire, eliminate the need for the court accountings. This savings is significant in the smaller estate where every dollar you are able to leave directly for the care of your children (and not for court fees) will be critically important.

We must do a complete and careful estate planning analysis to make certain that your family is as well cared for as possible after your death, and you must consider the full range of documents that may be necessary such as declarations of trust, wills, powers of attorney, guardian designations in order to make an informed decision for your family's benefit.

Now that you know what is at stake, why not plan now to avoid costly problems in the future?

Editor's note: Robert O. Middleton and Janet Montgomery are attorneys concentrating in tax planning for individuals and closely-held businesses with Chicago law firm of Nisen & Elliott. Both are members of the Chicago Estate Planning Council. They are part of the panel of financial experts preparing This Way to Wealth. Your questions are involved by writing to This Way to Wealth in care of this paper or to 2203B Lakeside Dr., Bannockburn, IL 60015.

Alla Grinko and Grigory Shevchenko

Here's one positive East-West exchange

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Note: Because the three years spent studying Russian in college by this writer some 15 years ago have gone the way of millions of dead brain cells, Alla's comments came via translation by her great-uncle.

Alla Grinko came to America looking for something to make her life a little easier. She'll leave with the dream of someday making the United States her new home.

The 20-year-old university student from the Soviet Union is visiting her great-uncle Grigory Shevchenko. But it's more than just a family reunion — it's a quest for a new leg.

Almost three years ago, Alla was hurrying to make the transfer between two trains on a winter's day in her hometown of St. Petersburg (It was called Leningrad until the recent political upheaval). The quickness of youth was no match for the ice-covered tracks, and she slipped and fell into the path of an oncoming train.

"I don't remember much about the accident — it all went so fast," Alla said.

Her right leg was broken badly but it was repairable. The damage to her left leg, however, was beyond the scope of the attending physicians, and the portion below the knee was amputated.

Alla was then provided with an artificial limb (prosthesis) manufactured in the Soviet Union. By their standards, it's one heck of a limb. By our standards, it's not much better than a wooden leg.

Grigory immigrated to the U.S. in 1958. A Ukrainian, he was one of millions of people forced into Nazi labor camps during World War II. After the war, Grigory lived in Germany and Belgium before coming to America. He landed a job with the Chicago Tribune and has retired to his Island Lake home after a career with that company.

When Grigory heard about Alla's accident and the difficulties with her prosthesis, he showed he's a man of action. He paid Alla's $1,700 round-trip airfare, and he went shopping for a new prosthesis.

Grigory got a leg up on his task when he called McKinney Prosthetics-Orthotics Inc. in McHenry. Not only would McKinney make Alla another limb during her visit, the clinic would provide the expensive appendage as a goodwill gesture.

"When he told us the story — and with everything going on over there — we said we'd donate the leg," said Jim Spielmann, vice president at McKinney. "She'd been through a lot."

The new leg is a beauty. It weighs around three pounds and has a multi-directional (up, down, side-to-side and some rotation) ankle unit. The old prosthesis, in contrast, weighed 10 pounds and provided no range of ankle motion.

The difference is "like the ceiling and the floor," Alla said. "The new one is lighter, more natural and fits better."

Before coming to the U.S., Alla had tried bicycling and shooting baskets, and she'd tried dancing a couple of times.

"I tried to overdo it," she said.

With the new prosthesis, she's ready to kick out the jams.

"It's much better and more convenient," Alla said. "It looks like a natural leg."

This navy man is a real ham

As a teenager Alan Goldstein would listen to Radio Moscow and the BBC on his transistor radio with shortwave band for hours. The more he listened the more he wanted to become a ham radio operator but he was side-tracked from that goal while pursuing another — to be a journalist.

Today, Goldstein is the Public Affairs Officer for Naval Training Center, Great

by RHONDA VINZANT

Lakes and a general class ham radio operator.

He pursued a degree in journalism while writing for his hometown newspaper, The Watertown Daily Times in Watertown, New York. He still has a scrapbook full of clippings from his college days including one published in his "Soupy Sommers" column where he predicted on Dec. 3, 1966 that Ronald Reagan would one day be president.

After graduating from college Goldstein, with sheepskin in hand, enlisted in the U.S. Navy as a journalist. Combining his interest in reporting and the airwaves, he became a Navy broadcaster, reporting the news to the crew of his ship while at sea and was involved with producing the Navy's first version of a regular television program to inform and education sailors.

In 1970, he became the first journalist to be assigned to Navy recruiting duty.

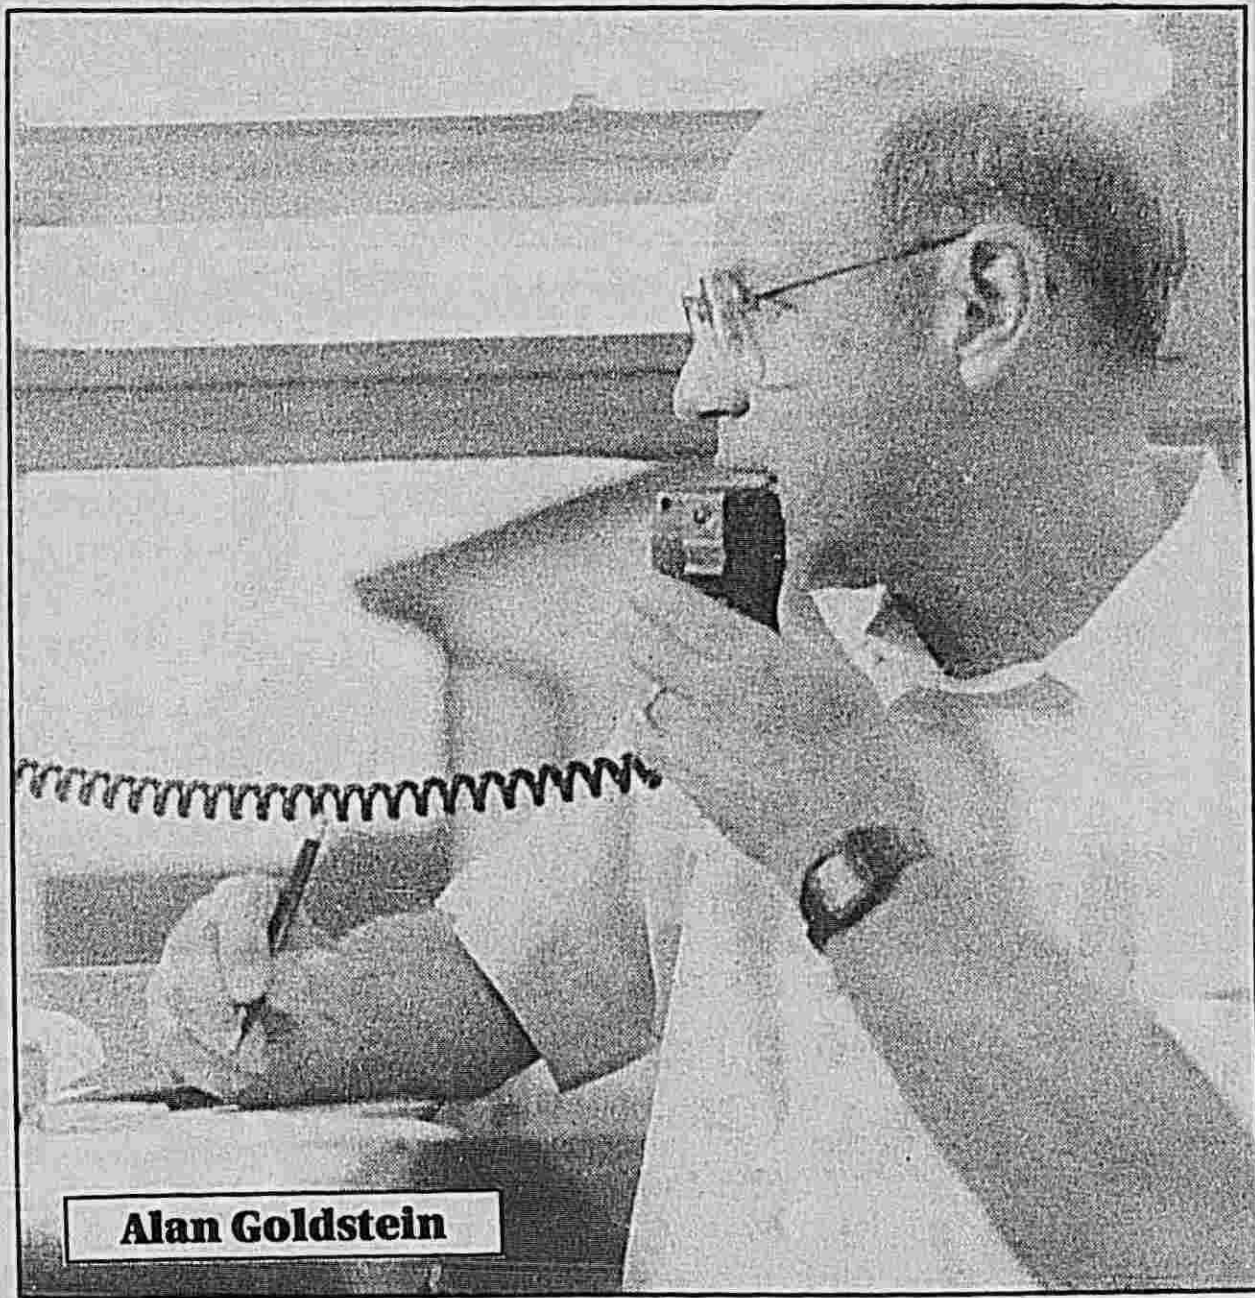

Although Goldstein had not pursued obtaining his amateur radio license, his interest in amateur radio had not waned. One day while out to sea aboard the aircraft carrier, USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, a little more than 15 years after he had received his first radio as a present from his father, he was listening with a chuckle.

Goldstein passed took the test for his novice license in Nov. 1979 and received it on Jan. 25, 1980. That first license remains in a frame above his radio equipment in a bedroom in his Lindenhurst home.

There are five classes of amateur radio licenses: novice, technician, general, advanced and extra. With each license the operators ability to access and communicate on different radio bands increases. Certain frequencies are set aside by the federal government for use by amateur radio.

The purpose of amateur radio is essentially to communicate in times of crisis such as a hurricane, earthquake or other disaster where usual means of communication such as phones, radio and television are no longer available. Amateur radio is tied into the Emergency Disaster Preparedness System throughout

'Turning the big 40?' don't panic—it's not all bad!

Latila the Hon

Just thinking about it gives you palpitations. By age 39 you've discovered you turned out just like your dear old dad or worse yet many woman by 39 found out not only do they look like their mother but they think, act, and sound exactly like their mother did. All you life you did you own thing, charted your own course, went your own separate way to find out by age 39 that you became one of your parents. You even laugh the same. It is pretty hard to adjust to but worse of all soon you will have to turn "40!"

If you are turning 40 don't despair. Many will turn 40 with you probably most reluctantly I might add. You remember young Luke Skywalker Mark Hamill? He turns 40 in 1991. Jane Seymour already turned 40 this year. Kurt Russell and even Michael Keaton along with Sting and Joe Piscopo turn 40 this year. None of them are ready for the old nursing home routine yet. Imagine poor Jane Seymour waking up one morning knowing every newspaper in the U.S.A. knows not only her birthday but that she was born in 1951! If it was me, this old girl wouldn't get out of bed for at least a year.

Turning 40 for a man can't be too rough. At 40 men are "seasoned," "mature." If they get a little grey around the temples or find they are in desperate need of a hair implant so what? Even a little pot belly doesn't raise but a few eyebrows! Men have growing old easy. Women have never had it easy! Men for some reason remain attractive at 40.

Us poor women have to go to "fat farm" with celebrities, we have to shed those few irritating pounds and exercise our arms so on a windy day they don't blow in the wind like the American flag. We get thighs we all swear we aren't in any way remotely related to.

Some gals look great after 40—the rich ones that can afford new tucks here and there and new assorted body parts. I wonder if it is too late for my husband to attend Medical School and specialize in at least breast uplifting, chin removals, thigh reduction, eye bag removal?

I'm holding up pretty well. My thighs could use some help, my eyes don't look too dreadful as long as I remember to use "white out" under my foundation. I haven't caught sight of wrinkles or crow's feet yet. As long as I can hold off turning 40 awhile yet I'll be just fine won't I? I'm thrilled this is definitely not my year to turn 40 like some of you out there. Gotta go now and catch this new television season line up of "The Greyfold Bunch," "Harried with Wrinkles," "Geraldo goes Bald" and "Lawrence Welk Rises Again." —by LAURA CLEGHORN

Poet in top 100 inducted into society's hall of fame

InterViews

In the wake of war, in the arms of peace, in the turbulence of transition, Darrell Anthony White said there is no justice when the adventure begins, but it will be just us who prevail in the end.

The words are from a poem that recently won the 24-year-old from North Chicago the International Pen Award from the International Society of Poets. The honor marks White as one of the top 100 ranking poets in the continental United States and Canada.

White, a charter member, also has been inducted into the organization's Hall of Fame. At the World of Poetry convention this month in New York City, the College of Lake County and Northeastern Illinois University graduate received his third Golden Poet award.

His first love is elementary education. Though White is not employed as a teacher, the Baxter Healthcare computer operator is one of the company's Junior Achievement instructors. Once a week he goes into the classroom at Webster Junior High School in Waukegan and teaches eighth graders about the American economic system.

With candor White said about education, "you have to have an open mind. Education will take you as far as you will let it take you."

His first creative writing experience was in third grade when as an assignment he wrote a storybook. "I never knew then that I would write the way I write now," he said. Along with the International Pen Award, White received a $50 check.

White, who describes himself as a naturalist, said he is spiritually inspired to write poetry and one day hopes to have a book published bearing his name.

White is the son of Mary L. White of Waukegan. A resident of Chicago's Albany Park, in October he will move to a basement apartment in a Gurnee home. "I like Gurnee," he said. "It's a comfortable place. I want to relocate to Lake County. I like the suburbs, the country. I like the city too, but I want to buy a home in Lake County," he said. —by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ

Williams, Bridges cavort in a rags and riches flick

Robin Williams and Jeff Bridges try the star-buddy system in "The Fisher King" with mixed results.

This is the tale of a fallen broadcaster and a street person who start hanging together after Williams rescues the drunken Bridges from an attacker.

Bridges starts the whole thing as a call-in radio host who suffers pangs of conscience after an irresponsible remark supposedly causes the caller to go on a shooting rampage in a nightclub.

Bridges then hits the bottle and the skids in a squalid area already inhabited by Williams.

The "Good Morning Vietnam" star, who plays a babbling idiot with alacrity (why not - when that's his stand-up schtick?) is back doing a routine that's a cross between Mork, Garp and many of his other roles.

With Williams, the audience never knows if his weird humor is part of the script or one of his famous ad-libs.

The couple of "fools of misfortune" soon become a quartet with Bridges latching on to Mercedes Ruehl his business partner and Williams and Amanda Plummer setting sail in their ship for "love fools."

Bridges, who is one of our favorite actors, has had his share of good roles and also his share of negligible ones.

This is the latter as his depressive attitude makes his one of the flick's weaker characters.

Blame the script and lackadaisical direction by Terry Gilliam, not Lloyd Bridges' son for this one.

Williams fans will love the film, especially since he employs most of the stand-up technique that made him a star.

Williams' detractors will probably file his one under "another example of his fragile mental state."

The two girlfriends, Mz. Ruehl and Plummer, actually steal the show with Mz. Ruehl's sexy mama a topnotch one and Mz. Plummer's clumsiness a "Chaplinesque Comedy Coupe."

There are several funny scenes, but they fail to surface at needed times.

Speaking of film robbers, Michael Jeter scores a hit in the scene where he dons a skirt and heels to do a nightclub number.

We'll give "Fisher" three out of five stars—on the basis of the lack of warmth and addition of confusion between our two buddies.—by GLORIA DAVIS

'Cirque du Soleil' on tour with new show for all ages

Critic's Choice

Cirque de Soleil, stopping in Chicago for its second tour, continues to rewrite the book on what a circus is—and is not.

This unique Montreal-based troupe, presenting an all-new show ("Nouvelle Experience"), transports its audience to another world through costume, music, mime, humor and un-believable feats of derring-do.

It's the only "circus" we know of where the performers are accompanied by two cellists and a sweet-sounding saxophone, among other instruments.

Animal acts are not part of this extravaganza either, but they're hardly missed. Here, with action focused on a single ring under a huge 2,500-seat tent, much of the razzle-dazzle comes from the French clowns. Endearing creatures, decked out in colorful costumes and carrot noses, these clowns radiate a spirit of joy that's infectious.

Seamlessly, one act moves into another, from the contortionists who twist themselves into human pretzels to the tightrope walker who jumps through a ring and dances on a rope. The two young Chinese women jugglers cause a sensation as they twirl several carpets and parasols with hands and feet.

They flying trapeze artists impress with their airborne somersaults as do the trampolinists with their complicated twists and turns in midair. A Russian equilibrist, Vassili Dementchoukov, seems to defy gravity as he balances atop a towering stack of wooden chairs.

But in the end, it comes back to those special clowns, from the brassy ringmistress, Frances LaBonte, to the zany antics of David Shiner (the bit where he comes on as a three-legged man and dances with himself is pure comic genius.)

Cirque du Soleil puts on a glorious show for all ages.—by TOM WITOM

A MESSAGE TO NEWS-SUN READERS from F.T. "MIKE" GRAHAM

The ongoing battle between News-Sun management's Glenn Pfeil and The Newspaper Guild goes far deeper than an employer/employee breakdown over fair labor negotiations.

The News-Sun is not just another small business. It is the most powerful political voice concerning local issues, elections and candidates in Lake County.

The key word is "FAIR". In my 20 years of public life I was always critical of the News-Sun under publisher Richard Kennedy regarding its policy of promoting land development and generally criticizing land preservation.

But Richard Kennedy was fair. He gave equal opportunity to respond on the editorial page—not so with The News-Sun under Glenn Pfeil. In my view, the present News-Sun management has its political "darlin's" who can do no wrong and political step-children who hadn't better.

This political policy comes dangerously close to a controlled press, in my judgment.

The recent "get-even" treatment of state Rep. John Matilevich, Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson and the mean-spirited, non-professional past attacks of former County Board member John Balen, all of whom have spoken out in defense of The Guild, are just a few examples of News-Sun management's distorted sense of fair play.

As a somewhat controversial office holder, I always received a fair hearing from the reporting staff—and that is all anyone can expect...but it is also what everyone should be able to expect from the news media.

When the employees themselves are urging a boycott and cancellations of home delivery because they can't get a fair hearing, it's a sure indication that The News-Sun readership is also not getting a fair or comprehensive review.

I support the boycott—not only because of the employee grievances but, even more important, because management's unfair attitudes have spilled over onto their very influential editorial page.

Hawaii's valley of paradise

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Would you like to find a lush tropical valley where oranges grow to the size of grapefruits, where avocados grow wild, where orchids are as common as weeds? Where is this land of Paradise?

It's known as Waipio Valley, and you'll find it on the island of Hawaii, largest island in the Hawaiian chain. (The "big" island.)

More specifically, it's on the northeast coast of the island at the end of Route 24. There you'll come to a lookout point where you can see down into the valley. You have a choice here. You can either hike down the very steep dirt road into the valley or take the "Waipio Valley Shuttle."

The shuttle is actually a jeep ride you'll long remember. For $10, your guide will take you down an awesome looking road for an hour-and-a-half tour of the valley. If you're lucky enough to get David for a guide, you'll also learn of the many legends about the Hawaiian royalty, said to be buried in the valley. David's tours usually stretch into two to three hours.

David was born here. At one time, there were over 4,000 people living in the valley. Now, his father is one of its few residents.

You will visit a black sand beach at the mouth of the valley. Then, ride up-river to the 1,000-foot Hillawe Falls. You'll find plants found nowhere else but in this valley, one of which wilts immediately if touched by a human hand. In the river itself is found a type of freshwater shrimp, again very rare. Wild fruit and flowers abound everywhere! David is very good at making a football helmet out of grapefruit skins for the kids. He'll also see that you leave the valley with enough wild fruit to feed you the rest of your stay in Hawaii.

When you do visit Hawaii's big island, a visit to Waipio Valley is a must.

the nation. Operators stand-by during drills of that system as well as in many local events to assist with communications. "Ham operators do many public service type endeavors such as providing communications during sporting events like marathons, athletics races and parades to keep their skills in use. Basically, you can talk about anything on the airwaves you like the only restriction is not to conduct business for profit," Goldstein said. "Of course, one must keep in mind that whatever is said is in the airwaves and anyone can listen."

Ham radio operators communicate in the United States in ten calling districts with Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana being in call district nine. "Hams know each other by radio call signs, more than names," said Goldstein, whose radio call sign is KA4MHY. The "4" refers to the listing call signs in alphabetical order along with the operators name and city location.

Messages are transmitted through a repeater station, which are located throughout the country. Goldstein uses a repeater station in Gurnee to transmit his messages. "There is no charge to use the airwaves per say," he added. "But dues are charged by a repeater association for use of the repeater. These are used to keep the system in repair."

There are many ways to transmit with amateur radio: Morse Code, voice or microphone and computer. "Its not very complicated to use," Goldstein added. "You don't have to be technically orientated to operate the equipment. I consider myself "an appliance operator," if something is broken I send it out for repair."

Goldstein uses a computer where messages are viewed and sent via a keyboard and screen. He also uses microphone transmissions and Morse code. "You should always know code," he added. "It can get through when nothing else can."

"One myth about amateur radio is that it is an expensive hobby," Goldstein said. "But, its really not. You can get started with a hand-held radio that runs as little as $200." Goldstein himself has branched above the basic equipment but has "far less," equipment than many ham operators. Goldstein says his favorite radio is the "HT" or handy-talky which resembles a cellular phone. He keeps one in both of his vehicles and often communicates with other amateur radio operators on his way to and from work. The "HT" is programmable so that he can call to his home phone as well.

He recently completed a "work all Denmark, Brazil, Venezuela, Argentina, Japan, Hungary, France, Rumania and Canada. The Radio Relay League also sponsored contests for highest technician.

Goldstein received that award for Virginia in 1981 and Illinois in 1991.

Goldstein would like to continue with amateur radio and work with the Military Affiliated Radio Systems (MARS) to make phone patches from military personnel to family members. He also wants to complete the American Radio Relays Certificate for reaching all-states via the computer.

As for his career in the Navy, Goldstein was enlisted for ten and a half years reaching the rank of chief journalist before being commissioned an officer through the Limited Duty Officer Program. "I love the Navy and for the last 23 years it has been a lot of fun," he said. "I don't know how long I'll stay." Goldstein does like this area of the country and would like to remain living here.

He and his wife Mary Post, who is a Navy Lieutenant working at Service School Command, Great Lakes currently reside in Lindenhurst with daughter, Karyn, 16 and two-year old Mark who was adopted from Guatemala. Another daughter, Karyl, 16, lives in Norfolk, Va.

Goldstein has many other outside interest as well including a desk-top publishing business and an antique truck that he shows in local parades. He also works with his church and is currently involved with a Habitat for Humanity project.

Alla will return to the Soviet Union soon to complete her degree in economics. And, she'll enjoy her favorite pastimes of movie-going and exchanging chatter with a group of friends.

But there's a new goal now — Alla plans to study English diligently. A combination of the turmoil and hard life at home and a sample of our standard of living has Alla hoping for permanent U.S. residency for her, her sister and her mother.

The pretty, bright-eyed blonde became wide-eyed when her grand-uncle took her into local stores.

"She couldn't believe her eyes — especially in the food stores," Grigory said. "Over there, the shelves are empty. Here, she didn't know what to take."

Alla said the situation in the Soviet Union is not improving. Food, consumer goods and medicine are very expensive — if and when they're available. Some items can be found only at exorbitant prices on the black market.

Some things, however, are universal: "The people don't trust the politicians," Alla said, referring to the recent ill-fated coup attempt.

Before she leaves for home, Alla will visit McKinney for a final fit and contour customizing.

"She'll let us know — she'll put her own special touches on it," Jim said.

McKinney Prosthetics-Orthotics was founded by Donald R. (Ray) McKinney about six years ago. Three locations are offered in Waukegan, McHenry and Kenosha, Wis.

Jim said a prosthesis like the one Alla received would normally cost from $4,000 to $5,000.

"You'd be surprised at how many amputees there are out there," Jim said. "They walk so well you don't know it, unless you have a trained eye for it."

Kelp helps control body metabolism

Today I'm going to introduce you to KELP. If taken properly, the benefits to you can be measurable. Kelp isn't new to anyone originating from the Far East. It has been part of the diet of Asians for centuries. Many claim that it is the reason for their thick, non-graying hair!

Let's explore the value of kelp. Kelp, in plain language, is seaweed.

Two-thirds of the body's iodine is in the thyroid gland. Iodine, a mineral, has a great influence on the thyroid, as you probably know. In turn, the thyroid gland controls the body's metabolism. It's easy to see, then, that if we don't have enough iodine, we might experience the following: weight gain, lack of energy, and slow mental reactions. According to the National Research Council, the daily RDA (which means Required Daily Allowances) is 80 to 150 mcg. for adults, (based on your weight), and between 125 to 150 mcg for pregnant and lactating women.

According to Earl Mindell's Vitamin Bible, this is what it can do for you: Help you with dieting by burning excess fat, promote proper growth, give you more energy, improve mental alertness, promote healthy hair, nails, and teeth.

When you are lacking in the proper amount of this valuable mineral, you could get one or both of the diseases, goiter or hypothyroidism. In every health study that I know, and in all health-related books, kelp is the number one natural source for iodine. Others include sea-food and vegetables grown in iodine-rich soil.

Many vitamin and mineral supplements have iodine in them, usually in doses of 0.15 mg. Natural kelp comes in supplemental form. If you'd like to be adventurous, buy some dried seaweed! It took me awhile to acquire a taste for it. I've had dinner with Japanese, who call it 'kombu,' and Chinese friends. They have seaweed on the table in different forms. There are dried small pieces that are paper thin. There is salad type bowl that has seaweed that looks like cooked spinach. It can be prepared in many ways, and in combination with vegetables. A small amount of seaweed put in the pot with water when cooking dried beans takes the 'gas' out of the beans! There are many ways to experiment with this wonderful, natural boost for good health and looks!

If you have eliminated salt from your diet, you've also eliminated some iodine. If you do use salt, make sure that it is iodized.

You might want to know that kelp contains more vitamins and minerals than any other food.

Here's what kelp contains: Vitamin

B2, niacin, choline, carotin, algenic acid, and the following minerals: iodine, calcium, phosphorus, iron, sodium, potassium, magnesium, sulfur, chlorine, copper, zinc, and manganese, in various amounts. There are also traces of 11 other minerals. Kelp is so special because of the extraordinary effect it has on the thyroid gland. It normalizes. What does that mean? If you're thin, it could help you gain weight. If you are obese, it could help you lose weight. Physicians who use homeopathic methods prescribe kelp for poor digestion, flatulence, and some forms of constipation. Some kelp enthusiasts are claiming that it is an excellent cancer preventive, and can even reduce tumors. Although I have looked over some very technical studies of documented, controlled experiments with a kelp-based treatment for tumors, I would not go so far as to recommend this 'cure.'

There must be a word of caution: If you are already taking medicine for thyroid, consult your physician if you intend to start taking kelp. You may be able to cut down on your prescription.

There's a diet that's been around for almost 20 years, and I'll share it with you for your consideration. It won't hurt you! By the way, as prices go, kelp is very inexpensive. In its seaweed form (dried is easy to find in health food stores and in Asian food stores), it too, can give you excellent health benefits for very little money.

This is what you use as a diet to lose weight: Most health food stores will have a tablet that contains kelp, lecithin, apple cider vinegar, and Vitamin B6. There are two strengths available: single and double. With the single you take two tablets with each meal and with the double, you take one.

Make sure that you keep up with other nutrition, such as foods with Vitamin C.

Let me know what happens!
—MARLENE BROWN.

Fall Car Care

Automobile safety—your first wintertime driving precaution

Motorists who prepare for cold weather driving by having an engine tune-up and the battery serviced should go one step further by checking the overall safety of the car.

This includes having the right tires on the car for any sort of weather condition that the season may bring. Contrary to the common belief that a car doesn't need snow tires if it has radials, experts in the field are saying now that snow tires (radial, bias or bias belted) provide up to 50 percent more traction in soft snow than conventional radials alone. Growing in popularity for year-round use is the all-season mud and snow tire.

Key checkpoints

Make sure that your brakes are in good shape, and check out the exhaust system to protect the driver and passengers from lethal carbon monoxide fumes during the winter season's "windows closed" driving weather.

The entire cooling system should also be given a complete check. Almost nothing can stop a car faster than a broken water pump belt or a blown radiator hose.

If engine belts are cracked on the bottom or glazed on the sides, or if the car is four years old, the belts should be replaced immediately.

A coolant mixture of 50 percent water and 50 percent permanent antifreeze should be maintained for maximum protection against the elements or a rust-clogged radiator.

The system should be drained, flushed and filled with new coolant every two years. This also is a safe interval for replacing the radiator hoses.

See and be seen

Inspect the car's lights and windshield wipers to ensure that you can see and be seen.

Is your car fuel-efficient? The cold weather months are the least economical for saving gas. Warming the engine in below-freezing temperatures burns disproportionate amounts of gas.

Stop-and-go driving with long periods of idling also wastes fuel.

Strictly For Seniors

'Senior Expo '91' comes to CLC

Hundreds of senior citizens will attend "Senior Expo '91" at College of Lake County on Thursday, Oct. 10. Each person will enjoy song and story, and will receive information and inspiration to help in daily living. This is the eighteenth annual meeting. Senior Expo '91 profits from all this experience—and promises to be the best of them all!

The day will start on a nostalgic note, with songs of the '20's, '30's, and '40's—recreated by Lee Murdock and his steel-stringed guitar. (Murdock is a recording artist, his latest album was released early this year.) He plays in a variety of musical styles, from piano rag to ballads, from blues songs to classical guitar. Seniors will recall songs they sang and danced to in past years—and will be encouraged to sing along!

Murdock's music will be followed by a popular feature of every "Senior Expo"—Dr. Leah Pendarvis, member of the CLC faculty. Her topic this year will be "Becoming a Hero; Creating Your Bliss"—a challenging subject which she is sure to discuss in her usual sprightly manner.

Rounding out the morning program, Lance Brown will present "A Tribute to Will Rogers." Brown is a student of the great humorist and his time; he does not try to imitate Will, but captures his free spirit and boundless energy. His performance will revive memories of Will Rogers and the years when he captivated all America.

The lunch period to follow will provide ample time for lunch and a walk through the exhibit area, where more than 30 exhibitors will be offering products and services that are used by senior citizens. Each booth is staffed by experts, ready to answer questions and help seniors solve problems.

Lunch will be served continuously during the midday "break." The complete hot lunch will include beef or chicken, with potato, vegetables, rolls and butter, coffee or decaf, and dessert. It will be served in the beautiful Willow room restaurant—and all through the lunch Larry Tobler and Jim Campbell will stroll by the tables, play their banjos and sing old songs that seniors know and love. The midday break will also include a giant raffle with dozens of valuable prizes and several cash prizes for

In the afternoon session of "Senior Expo '91" everyone will be free to attend any two instructive seminars, chosen from a total of 17, conducted in CLC's regular classrooms. Each one-hour seminar will be repeated; two may be chosen in any order. The seminars, and "Senior Expo '91," will end at 3:45 p.m.—before the evening rush hour.

Detailed descriptions of the 17 seminars, and a registration form are contained in a four-page circular available from the office of the Lake County Council for Seniors, 1 N. Genesee St., Waukegan, or by calling (708)244-1720.

Worry? Not them.

And why should you when you can protect your life savings with Long Term Care insurance?

Regrettably, many people do have to worry about the cost of long term care. Two in five older adults will require nursing home care¹ and costs average about $30,000 per year.² This can be a catastrophic expense draining you of the assets and savings you've worked so hard to build.

It doesn't have to be this way.

Worry-free coverage is available. To get more information on the long term care options available to you, call or write today.

Joint tenancy: the right or wrong form of ownership for your assets?

Fact: More people hold title to more assets in joint tenancy with right of survivorship than any other form of ownership.

Fact: In a substantial number of cases, this is not the best form of ownership for the individual, the other joint tenant(s) or heirs from a legal and/or financial point of view.

Why do so many people use joint tenancy?

- Convenience
- Sounds simple and uncomplicated
- Everyone else does it
- Avoids probate and eliminates the need to write a will
- Recommended by the person assisting in the transaction—for example, new accounts personnel, stock brokers and realtors. But do these people understand the real needs and wishes of the customer or the alternative account forms that might be more appropriate?

The legal character of joint tenancy with right of survivorship is that two or more parties have an equal and undivided interest and ownership in the property. At the death of one joint owner, the survivors automatically—or almost automatically—acquire the share of the deceased. If originally there are three joint tenants, each owns a third. When one dies, the two remaining tenants each own half. When another tenant dies, the survivor takes all. A will does not control property held in joint tenancy. Problems and Questions of Joint Tenancy Ownership, control and trustworthiness: Each joint tenant has rights such as the right to withdraw from a checking or savings account. Would you be upset if your joint tenant withdrew all the money and left you with nothing? What's the likelihood of that happening? Whereas it's possible to establish a joint account that requires all tenants to sign on a withdrawal, this is cumbersome for everyone. Some financial institutions don't even make this option known.

Inheritance: Do you really intend that the surviving joint tenant take ownership at your death? OR, is there someone else that you want for your beneficiary? Once that person has ownership, he or she can dispose of the property however they desire. You have no say. Would you be happy if a surviving spouse remarries, dies before the new spouse dies and leaves everything to the new spouse's family and nothing to your family?

Avoiding Probate: Except for people with very small estates, it's virtually impossible to avoid going to probate court to obtain permission to transfer ownership of a dead person's assets to heirs or beneficiaries. It's difficult to have all assets owned in joint tenancy. Almost everyone will have some assets owned individually.

Eliminate the Necessity to Write a Will: NO, NO, NO! Everyone should have a will, regardless of how rich or poor they are and even if all assets are owned in joint tenancy at the time a decision is made to not write a will. Situations can change. What happens if you and your joint tenant die in a common disaster and neither has a will? If it turns out a will is not really necessary to transfer assets, fine. But if you do need a will and don't have one...Bad News! It's costly, time consuming and a mess. Writing a simple will is easy and doesn't cost very much. Don't go to your reward without one.

Capital Gains Taxes: They will be higher when a surviving joint tenant sells at a profit property acquired through the death of a joint tenant. The gain on sale depends on the difference between original cost (basis) and selling price.

Assume a husband and wife buy an asset such as stock or real estate for $100,000 and take ownership in joint tenancy. At the time the first spouse dies, the asset is worth $150,000. If the surviving tenant subsequently sells the asset for $200,000, the capital gains tax will be based on a profit of $75,000. (The surviving spouse's original half interest has a basis of $50,000, leaving a profit of $50,000. The basis of the interest acquired from the deceased spouse is $75,000, one-half of $150,000, as that basis is determined by the value at the time of death. The profit on that half therefore is $25,000, $100,000 less $75,000.)

If ownership had been entirely in the name of the first spouse to die, the basis for the surviving spouse would have been $150,000. This produces a capital gain of just $50,000, or $25,000 less.

The obvious conclusion is that it is wise to have highly appreciated assets owned by whichever spouse will die first. That may not be an easy decision to make at the time assets are acquired. Whatever the original decision, a change can be made at a later date. The unlimited marital deduction (the ability to transfer assets between husband and wife) creates significant opportunities for professional counsel to help you with intelligent financial planning that can produce big savings.

Estate Taxes: If significant assets are likely to be involved in either tenant's estate, extra and unnecessary reliance on joint tenancy could help solve the U.S. Government's budget deficit problem. You'll wind up paying lots of taxes. Federal estate taxes are high—they start at 37 percent and escalate quickly. It is true that taxes apply only to estates in excess of $600,000. However, most people are worth a lot more than they think, based on how Uncle Sam figures the numbers.

Here's the problem with joint tenancy. Say that a couple has assets worth a half million dollars and owned in joint tenancy. One spouse dies. If the surviving spouse dies unmarried and the assets are then worth over $600,000, federal estate taxes will be assessed. However, with financial planning involving intelligent use of the marital deduction and trusts, substantial tax savings could be realized and lots more money passed on to beneficiaries.

Griefnotes

The loss of a spouse at any age means a change of routine and a change in our relationships with others. Older people may be more aware of death because they see it more often but it is not usually easier to accept. For the older person there may be fewer contacts with friends. There may be more loneliness and depression. It may be more difficult to perform such tasks as shopping or cutting the

EBERHARDT

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 58'-0" X 56'-0"
LIVING: 2706 square feet
GARAGE: 576 square feet

EBERHARDT (400-34)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

The elegant vaulted living room in the Eberhardt is so spacious that it has its own wing, jutting out at a diagonal angle from the garage. A 12-foot-wide bay window expands the room still further, and a corner woodstove provides warmth when the weather turns chilly.

Side yards shaped by the numerous exterior angles of this medium-size country-contemporary home provide varied opportunities for creative landscaping. Although designed for a standard lot, this plan is also especially well suited for construction on a cul-de-sac.

The large country kitchen, outfitted with a central work island, can easily accommodate a whole family of cooks at the same time. The window-brightened eating nook offers an open invitation to linger over informal meals, sipping coffee or working the crossword puzzles from the daily newspaper.

Practical amenities include a pantry, a broom closet, and a large utility room equally handy to the kitchen, garage and back yard.

At the end of the day, when it's time for the owners to unwind, they can step into their own private sauna. Access is through a study adjacent to the master suite, which has a walk-in closet and private bathroom. Sliding glass doors in the sleeping area open onto a wide balcony.

The front bedroom is not only larger, but has the added benefit of a 4 by 6 foot dormer window overlooking the street.

For a study plan of the EBERHARDT (400-34), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Horn, Vikings pass by Express into first place

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Variety, they say, is the spice of life, and yes, even in semi-pro football.

Just ask Lake County Vikings quarterback Brian Horn. On a chilly night in the Milwaukee suburb of Brown Deer, the Vikes signal caller passed for three touchdowns and more than 250 yards as the Vikings won handily 31-0. The win gives the Vikes a 3-3 record and sole possession of first place in the northern division of the Midwest Football League.

"We just mixed it up. We used some long passes, some short passes and a lot of audibles. The offensive line did a great job," Horn said of his 11-of-19 passing night.

The Vikings also had variety in the running game. The Express did not know who would come at them next: would it be Rodney Coleman (five carries for 27 yards in his first appearance in the backfield), Stu Staehl (seven for 23) or Horn on quarterback scrambles (five for 23). Horn was playing in place of Walter Tesch, out with sore ribs.

"It was an outstanding performance," Vikings Coach Russ Kraly said.

The lopsided win featured another strong performance by the defense. The Vikes recorded their first shutout of the year. Mike Wade and Bob Akers had interceptions and Steve Chester and Al Ploch had several big hits. Akers returned his interception three yards for the Vikes final score.

The special teams continued to help. Scott "Scooter" Barnes, who normally is not in the headlines, blocked a punt. "We just have a lot of heart," Barnes, a 1989 graduate of Zion-Benton said of the special teams play.

The Vikings are back home for the next two weeks, looking to better their run for a playoff bid. They face Chicago Thunder at 6 p.m. at Round Lake High Sept. 28 and Gary Oct. 5.

Kicker Tom Vergis got the scoring going early with a 15 yard field goal two minutes into the first quarter. Vergis also kicked all four Lake County extra points.

Jerry Nash caught the first of his two touchdown catches, a 23 yarder from Horn for a 10-0 lead with 10:30 left in the second quarter.

Damian Horn recovered a Milwaukee punt to keep a drive going in the third quarter, leading to a 12-yard pass from Horn to Rick Starosta for a 23-0 lead.

The win was especially satisfying for three-year Viking veterans. They had lost two close games in Milwaukee before. The Vikings have outscored the Express 67-21 this year. "We have their number," Horn said.

'Devils, Shelton show versatility in victory

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Craig Shelton knew he did not have the best game of his career at quarterback.

But that did not mean Shelton did not play a big role in Warren's hard-fought 6-2 win over North Chicago. The win gives Warren a 3-0 start for the first time in Coach Reggie Hughes' tenure while it leaves the defending North Suburban Conference champs struggling at 0-3.

With Warren ahead 6-2, Shelton and Brandon Schild teamed up to stop Cyrus Johnson at the Warren one. On the game's final play, Shelton recovered a fumble that secured the victory. He also turned in a strong game as a punter.

"I was upset because I had thrown an interception," Shelton said.

The goal-line stand was Warren's second in two games. "We have some size up there this year," Warren Coach Reggie Hughes said.

The Warren secondary, where Shelton starts at safety, used its usual bend-but-not-break defense against North Chicago's Jamal Patterson. "We give quarterbacks who want to throw the ball problems," Shelton, quickly giving credit to the other secondary starters: Jeremy Wilmot, Jim Gramer and Jeff Evitts along with first sub Mark Leginski, said.

Shelton last punt made North Chicago start at its 21 with only 27 seconds left. "I workout with Dar (assistant coach Townsend) before each game on punts. I think I could have beaten him today," Shelton said.

The Blue Devils made a nine-yard run by junior running back Robert Olson with 5:55 left in the third quarter stand up as the game's only touchdown.

Linebacker Dante Addams gave the Warhawks offense a chance when he intercepted a Shelton pass. Five minutes later, he sacked Olson in the end zone for a safety.

"We were in the game from beginning to end. Our defense was consistent, but not our offense. We have only scored 13 points in three games," North Chicago Coach Mike Durrah said. The Warhawks are at Rockford Guilford Stadium to battle Rockford East Sept. 28.

North Chicago's speed worried Warren Coach Reggie Hughes before the Navy Day game. Johnson made those fears come true as he scampered 42 yards on the Warhawks' second play. "How do you eliminate a kid with his type of speed? We told them you would have to gang-tackle him," Hughes said.

Warren's last possession of the first half was started at midfield. A roughing the passer call on North Chicago gave Warren the ball at the 30 with nine seconds left. Shelton apparently found Ryan Taylor open for a TD, but the pass was knocked away by Steve Earl.

Hanson sees slim chance for football team at CLC

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

The question was not quite complete when Gene Hanson answered it.

"Never," he said, anticipating the inquiry about football at the College of Lake County.

Hanson is the new dean for physical education, health and athletics at CLC, a position which encompasses the role of athletic director.

"I'll never initiate a study of football. I'm sure it would be used as a recruiting draw, but that would not offset the cost. Don't get me wrong, I love football," Hanson said as the Dallas - Cardinals game could be heard through the telephone.

But Hanson would rather see more sports at the junior college than the "big daddy" of football. Also, the Skyway Conference schools are basically commuter schools which do not don the helmets and shoulder pads. Hanson has plans to add men's volleyball this spring and women's soccer soon. The efforts and resources could be directed at sports which are not doing so well.

Hanson, an original staff member at the Grayslake school, said the college has supported athletics well through the years. He will make it a point to get to as many sporting events as possible. Meanwhile, the veteran baseball coach will continue his duties on the diamond.

"I have to learn to budget my time, but I view it as a challenge," Hanson said.

Hanson was a three-sport athlete growing up in St. Louis, playing football, basketball and baseball. "I was an average college player. I was a solid defensive player and I had an excellent arm but I couldn't get many hits," Hanson said.

Hanson takes over from Curtis Gentry. The former Chicago Bear is a teacher at CLC this fall.

The likeable Hanson does not subscribe to any one style of hitting. "I try to adapt my way to theirs. I try and give them a lot of confidence," Hanson said.

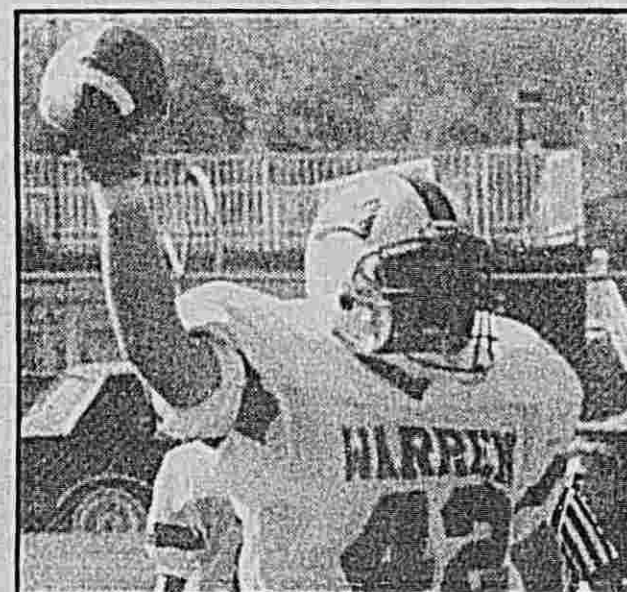

In addition to his athletic director chores, Hanson and new assistant coach Mike Ledinski are guiding the fortunes for CLC's fall baseball season. CLC is 4-0 to start the more relaxed fall season, where there are no umpires.

Returning standouts for CLC are all Skyway Conference MVP Jim Cooney and Rex Eamann at pitcher. All-state Mark LeGrand at third; Shawn Stanek, who played in every inning last year as a catcher. John Katalinich, who played a year at Indiana University, joins the pitching staff and Jay Garrity, from Lake Forest High. Newcomers who are expected to contribute are Warren grad Steve Karolewicz at shortstop and Grant's Mark Miesiek.

Football notes: it was one rough week for Lake County teams to venture out of the friendly confines. With the notable exception of Round Lake's 49-3 win over St. Francis and Wauconda's 28-14 win over Marmion, the rest of the area was shutout and with some big scores to boot. Grayslake would like to forget a 58-0 loss at Immaculate Conception, the same for Grant in a 50-18 defeat to Elgin St. Edward. Mundelein and Lake Zurich had bright spots in their losses...Warren is making those who predicted the Blue Devils and the Patriots to be on the top of the NSC correct as they are 2-0, 3-0 to start the year. The Blue Devils are this week's top team in the top five. They are followed by 2-1 teams: Stevenson second, Round Lake third, Wauconda fourth and Lake Zurich fifth.

Game's lone TD

Warren runningback Robert Olson proudly holds the football after scoring on a nine-yard run against North Chicago. The third quarter score would prove to be the game's lone touchdown as Warren won 6-2. Blue Devils host Antioch for Homecoming game Sept. 28 at 1 p.m. - Photo by Steve Peterson.

CLC soccer team closes in on first league crown

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

There are no Skyway Conference soccer championship banners hanging from the walls of the physical education center at the College of Lake County.

For that matter, the banners don't exist in any of the conference schools. That's because this is the first year men's soccer is a conference sport and CLC would like nothing better than to claim that first crown.

The Lancers have an opportunity to do just that as they are at Elgin Sept. 27 and host Waubesa Sept. 28 at 1 p.m. in Grayslake. The Waubesa game will feature a parents' day event. The Lancers have defeated both teams and started the week with a 3-0 league record. "We're in the driver's seat," CLC Coach Dave Beck said.

The Lancers increased their record to 5-0-1 with a 2-0 win over Triton and a 2-1 win over McHenry last week. "We played some of the best soccer all year and we have mostly a freshmen team," Beck said.

Goalie Mike Oberto stopped a penalty kick and had several other key saves in the win over Triton, CLC's first ever at Triton.

Joe Carver and J.P. Siegwald scored CLC goals with assists from Joe Braido and Jaime Cervantes. The two also scored the team's goals in the 2-1 win at McHenry. Both goals came in the second half.

"It was kind of a physical game. They (McHenry) had seven yellow cards and two red cards and two players were kicked out. It's hard to keep the level of concentration and the crowd was abusive but the kids maintained their composure," Beck said.

CLC hosts Kishwaukee in a 4 p.m. game Oct. 1.

In other CLC news, the women's tennis team shutout Wright 7-0 and downed ITT 7-2.

Golf duo ends 12th

The College of Lake County's Dave Holbeck and Keith Zupec finished in 12th place at the College of DuPage golf Invitational.

Sixteen schools competed.

The Lancers were fourth at a Skyway meet Sept. 16. Scott Ries shot an 80 and was third place medalist. CLC had a team score of 356.

The Lancers are in fourth place in the Skyway Conference, two points out of second and one point out of third.

Tough tests continuing for Carmel grid team

Carmel High School's football team is a classic case of out of the frying pan and into the fire.

The Corsairs battled a tough Benet Academy team before falling in a 19-14 East Suburban Catholic Conference opening loss. The Corsairs, 0-3, are at state ranked Marist Sept. 27 in Chicago.

"We expect a great game, and we'll give them one," Carmel Coach Mike Fitzgibbons said moments after the Corsairs concluded a practice with sunlight fading.

Missed early opportunities and a key blocked punt returned for a third-quarter touchdown did the Corsairs in against the Redwings.

Carmel scored first on a 10-yard pass from Tony Longmire to tight end Pete Graham. "Tony is getting better and better. Pete has done a nice job for us," Fitzgibbons said.

Carmel had four chances inside the Benet 20 in the first half, but had only seven points to show for it. Chris Mohr missed a 32 yard field goal. "We had four chances within their 20. That, more than the blocked punt, decided the game," Fitzgibbons said.

Benet's Will DeMille blocked a Matt Schlatter punt in the third quarter and returned it 19 yards for the score. Benet added a three-yard TD run by Mark Melchiorre.

The game marked the return of Carmel's Jermaine Williams. "He'll say he's 100 percent, but he was probably playing hurt," Fitzgibbons said. Williams suffered a back injury in the season opener. Williams gave Carmel hope when he scored from two yards out with 4:40 left in the fourth. Carmel got the ball back, but came up short on a fourth-and-one play.

Grant faces passing game

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

The footballs in the air may be thicker than mosquitoes in July when Lombard Montini visits Grant Friday night.

"They throw the ball about 40 times a game," Grant head coach Rob Kruse said.

But at the top of the list of Kruse's concerns is his Bulldogs' propensity to give away the football. Grant committed six turnovers in a 50-18 loss to St. Edward last week.

"I think we'll do better this week," Kruse said. "But we've got to cut down on turnovers. The defense is on the field a long time as it is."

Montini comes to town with a 1-2 mark, while Grant is 0-3.

In the game at St. Edward, Chris Alex scored two of Grant's TD's with a 69-yard run and a 65-yard pass reception from Angel Pineda.

Alex was almost counted out after suffering a back injury in the Bulldogs' opener, but "he's doing a great job," Kruse said.

Pineda also combined with Joe Pardubsky on a 59-yard scoring strike. Pineda completed 9 of 23 passes for 165 yards, but threw five interceptions.

Tom Schweiss led the defense, racking up eight tackles and two assists and causing a fumble. Doug Bein recovered a fumble, and Todd Richards received Kruse's praise for his defensive play.

Junior Mike Miller will undergo knee surgery and will be lost for the season.

Versatility is Mak's strength

Looking for a silver lining has been one of the traits of Mundelein football fans of late, as MHS loyalists turn to strong individual performances to substitute for a struggling team.

The Mustangs have lost three straight to start the year, but one of those bright spots has been Dina Mak. Mak, a senior, is the starting strong safety, returns kickoffs and plays on punts. He provided the Mustangs with one of their defensive highlights when he deflected a Lake Forest pass in a 35-12 loss.

"He does a complete job. He has been far our best player," Mundelein Coach Mike Egan said.

Mak returned a kickoff 25 yards against the Scouts and earlier blocked an extra point try against Libertyville.

Also a bright spot was the running of Jeff Schubat. Schubat scored on two touchdown runs in the fourth quarter and rushed for 129 yards for the game. His first score, a three-yard run, came after a 50-yard MHS drive. The second score came after cornerback Dave Clark recovered a fumble. Schubat, a 6-0, 170 pound senior, was able to recover from an injury suffered the week before at Libertyville.

"I thought Jeff really ran hard. He read his blocks better," Egan said.

Rich Hoskins paced Lake Forest (3-0) by scoring two touchdowns.

Fall Foliage

Tips for easy fall clean-up

Just as smoking piles of leaves that signalled the arrival of fall have become a thing of the past, so soon may be heaps of garbage bags stuffed with leaves on the curb.

Legislation in more than 30 states prohibiting homeowners from sending yard refuse to landfills will dump the entire mess right back on homeowners.

Although the problem of what to do with fall (and summer, for that matter) lawn debris simply isn't going to blow away, there are some reasonably simple solutions.

Don't Bag It

The best of the bunch? Don't bag it.

According to Dr. James Watson, turf agronomist, mowed grass clippings and chopped-up leaves actually fertilize the soil. That means homeowners can forget to rake and use their lawnmower to vacuum up, chop and return leaves and grass clippings to the lawn while helping to fertilize the yard at the same time. Meanwhile, this time and effort-saving step helps reduce America's growing landfill crisis.

Can it be true? Consider this. Every bag of clippings contains up to a quarter-pound of usable organic nitrogen. Throughout the summer and fall, clippings can generate up to 25 percent of the lawn's total fertilizer needs.

Likewise, leaving leaf clippings on the lawn can be beneficial. Finely chopped leaves and grass clippings provide a food source for soil microbes. These microbes eat plant matter and convert the soil nutrients contained in the plant matter into plant-usable forms.

Recycling Mowers

The key to replacing your rake with your lawnmower is to finely shred the clippings and spread them evenly over the lawn. Recycled leaf deposits that cover no more than one-half the grass blade pose no problem. If you can't see the grass underneath the shredded leaves, you'll need to mow over the lawn a second time with the bag on.

For the most effective recycling, Texas A&M agronomists, who pioneered the concept of not bagging clippings and leaves, recommend using a mulching mower. Texas A&M research shows that grass clippings mowed by a mulching mower are more pulverized than grass clippings cut by conventional side discharge mowers. Because of this, they have a higher sugar content and decompose faster.

Some mulching mowers are specifically designed to leave grass and leaf clippings on the lawn. The Recycler finely cuts clippings and leaves with its patented deflectors and special blade, then forces the chopped material into the ground where it is most beneficial. The result is a clean lawn which looks as though it had been mowed with a bagging mower, and/or raked by hand.

The kid's corner: trees are terrific friends

Did you know there are more than 20,000 different kinds of trees around the world? Did you know that tree leaves help reduce pollution and that tree roots help prevent erosion, the washing away of the soil? Trees are a very important part of nature and of our lives.

Imagine what your park would look like if there were no trees. Birds and squirrels and owls would be left homeless. Without trees, even people would have to find new ways to build their homes, because there would be no lumber.

Did you know that some trees live for hundreds of years? While a tree might live a long time, some trees go through cycles every year, losing all their leaves each autumn. Then they grow new leaves in spring. These are called deciduous (dah-sid-joo-us) trees. Evergreen trees are different. They keep their leaves all year.

Leaves have a very important purpose. They are the food factory for the tree. They take the water and minerals absorbed by the tree roots, and carbon dioxide from the air, and add a lot of sunshine and a chemical called chlorophyll (chlorophyll is what makes leaves green) to create sugar. This manufacturing process is called "photosynthesis."

The sugar is the tree's food. It gets stored in the tree trunk, branches and roots. The tree uses some of the food during winter and a lot of the food in spring when it starts to build new growth.

The process of photosynthesis is also important to people. In order to make food for the tree, photosynthesis takes carbon dioxide from the air. Carbon dioxide is a poisonous gas for people. At the end of photosynthesis, the leaves give off oxygen into the air. Oxygen is very important to people—it's the air we breathe.

Next time you see a tree, say "hello." It's one of your best friends. It works very hard every day. Besides giving us beauty and shade on a hot summer day, and apples, pears, cherries, bananas and a lot of other fruits and nuts, trees give us oxygen, lumber for our houses, paper for our books, and a home for birds and squirrels and monkeys and more.

Get bulbs ready now for next spring's garden

A sure sign that summer is winding down are the heaps of dutch bulbs now on display at garden centers and nurseries all over town. September and October is the time to get those bulbs into the ground before "the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock."

Careful selection

Always select bulbs that are plump, firm and free of deep scars. Small nicks, scrapes and loose skins do not harm the embryo flowerers hidden deep inside the bulbs.

There are more than 85 types of spring-flowering bulbs, ranging from minuscule galanthus to towering allium giganteum. With proper treatment, most bulbs will perennialize—that is, bloom season after season.

Quick to root

Bulbs take root shortly after they are planted. A "cooling off" period of 15 to 20 weeks is essential for proper growth and healthy blossoms.

Several inches of soft, pliable soil beneath the bulbs will help stimulate root growth. Dig the bed at least 10 inches below ground level, condition the dug-out soil and return a portion of it to the bed bottom.

Plant large bulbs—tulips, daffodils and hyacinths, among others—eight inches deep and spaced six inches apart. Minor bulbs such as muscaris and crocuses can be safely planted five inches deep and spaced three inches apart.

Nestle each bulb firmly into place with its tip pointed skyward, then cover the bed with the remaining conditioned soil. Water the planted area thoroughly.

Before the first deep penetrating frost sets in, cover the area with a two-inch layer of mulch and soak it again.

Use this same depth-and-spacing formula—four-thirds and five-thirds—whether you plant traditional square, oblong, or circular beds, or "naturalize" your garden with drifts of casually strewn bulb flowerers.

Best placement

Good drainage is another important gardening factor. Select a planting site in partial shade and away from gullies and other places that collect water.

Loosen and condition the soil until it feels crumbly and soaks up water. If your soil is high in clay content, neutralize it with peat or compost in amounts of one-third to one-half the soil volume.

Porous, well-drained soil will channel essential moisture to bulbs throughout the winter.

Fertilization also is a critical element in successful bulb gardening. Recent research has demonstrated that a diet of bone meal alone is not sufficient for the majority of bulbs.

The Horticultural Science Department at North Carolina State University completed a four-year test program on a variety of bulbs grown in 15 climatic zones throughout North America.

Test results showed that bulbs need nitrogen, potassium and other micro-nutrients, in addition to bone meal. It was further determined that the need for fertilization is as important during the winter and spring as it is at planting time.

As a result of the university study, a special slow-release fertilizer was developed and is available in the U.S. and Canada.

Needed nutrients

It's called Holland Bulb Booster® and it contains all the nutrients that bulbs require. A single application at planting time, following the directions on the package, will periodically release the fertilizer in proper dosages throughout winter and spring.

Holland Bulb Booster has been proven to yield bright-colored blossoms as well as stronger, greener stems and leaves. It also improves perennialization.

Fall planting

Get your bulbs into the ground this fall. The displays of sunny tulips, daffodils and other spring-flowering bulbs will give you a much-needed boost after the long, dreary winter.

Cox celebrates birthday with record setting race

Championship battles hit high gear at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway in Wilmot, Wis., Sept. 21. Kenosha's Joe Roe solidified his spot among five contenders for the sprint car crown as the reigning winged warrior king won his third 25-lap main event. In the modified season championship feature, Kenosha's Allen Winker edged out Tim Cox of Park City by less than six inches in one of the closest feature finishes in the 38-year history of "Wisconsin's Clay Center of Speed." Skip Martin of Island Lake, secured his first-ever track championship by winning his seventh 20-lap feature. The spectator stocks closed out their season with Jukka Myllymaki of Beach Park winning his third 15-lap feature to follow-up on a convincing win in the 10-lap Midwest Motorcoach Feature Challenge.

Cox celebrated his 31st birthday with a new one-lap Midwest Motorcoach Modified Feature Challenge, then he went on to score the win. In the 20th Annual Collis A. Pearson Memorial Modified Semi-feature, Scott Bierter, a third-generation competitor in racing, scored the win and picked up the prestigious trophy from Mrs. Penny Pearson, Collis' widow. The award is always presented to the semi-feature winner on the modified championship night.

In the spectator stock final feature, Myllymaki put his Diversified Maintenance Systems/Auto Parts City/Kangas Construction Camaro in Front on lap five, and was never headed enroute to a win by half a straightaway. Larry Surlita, 1991 Wilmot Champion Rob Olson, Dave Webb and Mark Ring completed the top five. "This is great," said Myllymaki, speaking with an accent from his native Finland. "This is a great way to finish up the year. Now we get started on getting ready for next season."

Myllymaki led every lap of the record-setting 10-lap spectator stock feature challenge which had to be restarted after an opening circuit crash between fast qualifier and new one-lap track record holder Scott Kuxhouse spun collecting Bob Dodd. On the restart, Myllymaki shot in front and turned several laps under the track qualifying record, as was Dennis Kratz who finished a strong-closing runner-up. Bobby John Hensley was third, Larry Surlita fourth, Olson fifth and Mark Ring sixth.

Larry Vanderve led the first lap of the hotly contested modified main. Dennis Spitz shot into the lead on the second circuit in turn two with Cox taking top spot on the inside in turn four of lap three. Spitz retook the lead as he and Cox worked lapped traffic on lap 11. One lap later, the traffic proved Spitz downfall as two backmarkers tangled in turn one with Spitz sliding into the pair. Cox inherited the lead on the restart with Winker going to the high side. On lap 15, Winker took the lead after the two bumped in turn four. Two laps later, a spun car brought out a final caution. During the yellow, Winker was put back two positions for rough driving during the earlier incident placing him third on the restart. Cox regained the lead on the restart setting up a wheel-to-wheel battle in the open wheels between Cox and Winker for the final three laps. With Winker on the outside and Cox on the inside, the crowd rose to its feet on the brisk autumn night as the two dived around the one-third mile clay oval. At the finish, with lapped traffic among them, Winker and Cox crossed the finish line at the checkered flag wheel to wheel. Spitz came back to take third, Leroy Ostrowski fourth and Gary Dye fifth. "Tim and I have raced together a lot, and twice we've gotten together and both times it has been my fault. It's going to go down to the wire and in my pit, we gear up to win every race so that's what we'll be doing next week," Winker said.

Wadsworth will install stop sign

by HEATHER FLOOD
Lakeland Newspapers

On Sept. 9, Charlie Schlosser, age 11, of 38310 Chicago Ave., was hit by a motorist while riding his bicycle on that street in Wadsworth.

Eight days later, at the Village of Wadsworth's board meeting, installation of a stop sign at the intersection of Chicago Ave. and Schlosser Ct. was approved.

The intersection is known by Wadsworth residents as an area where children ride their bikes and play. However, Wadsworth Trustee Laurie Dolan said the street is also used by motorists as a thruway from Wadsworth Rd. to Yorkhouse Rd.

"I've asked the (Lake County) Sheriff's Dept. to patrol and use radar," Wadsworth Mayor Don Kraft said.

The board's approval of the stop sign initiated a round of applause from the audience. Wadsworth resident Tom Grosskopf, whose daughter was also hit on the same road a year ago, said, "I think there's 22 parents who also thank you."

Immediately after thanking the board, Grosskopf, of 14640 Country Ln., turned angry when he demanded an answer from Trustee Dave Koschak. Last year Koschak endorsed a drainage plan that Grosskopf contends has damaged a portion of his property.

"I have lost six bushes at about $200. You have to get out there and inspect it," said Grosskopf, who now has problems with his sub-pump.

Ending the argument, Mayor Kraft said the board would not be able to comment on the problem until Grosskopf's lawsuit against the village had been reviewed.

In other business, the board:

- Approved a two-year bid from Campanella & Son for snow removal. This costs for the service will be based on the amount of equipment and materials used which will be provided by the Wadsworth-based company.

Space for rent at Oct. 5 craft show

The Lindenhurst Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring their first annual "Fall Fest Craft Show" on Sat, Oct. 5 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. over 30 talented crafters will be exhibiting their handmade craft items at the Linden Plaza on Grand Ave., in Lindenhurst.

Limited space is still available for crafters to reserve for a $25 fee. Call Lynne Mark at (708) 356-3221.

Attending IMSA

Mark Bazata, son of Jim and Sarah Bazata of Lake Villa, is among 240 Illinois students who enrolled this fall as a member of the Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy's (IMSA) sixth sophomore class. Bazata attended Antioch Community High School last year.

- Approved a motion to have an alarm system installed in the village's security building. The system will be installed by Unlimited Security, Inc. from Waukegan and will cost $875 for installation and $12.50 a month for periodic inspections and maintenance.
- Discussed the possibility of expanding the parking lot adjacent to the village hall. On Oct. 1, a land planner will make a presentation outlining the village's options. "We're breaking it (the series of proposed improvements) into pieces. The biggest thing is what order to do things," Trustee Jim Shepperd, park committee chairman, said.

- Approved a $500 donation from Newport Twp. for an information signboard to be placed near the township and village hall offices. Newport Twp. decided to donate the money to express thanks for use of the village's building for offices and meetings. The village also approved to spend $150 for the signboard.

NEUROMAS--A CONSTANT SOURCE OF FOOT PAIN

Morton's neuroma is an incredibly painful condition affecting the foot. A neuroma is a thickening and/or swelling of the sensory nerve of the foot. The pain from a neuroma is episodic in nature, at first usually bearable, a sort of a dull stinging and burning sensation, which radiates to the 2nd, 3rd, 4th or 5th toes. Pain progresses, however, to a spiraling pain of excruciating level that radiates into the involved toes and feels like it's taking over the entire foot. It is often said that sufferers feel compelled to remove their shoes and to flex and massage their toes rapidly to gain relief.

Treatment of neuromas usually consists of conservative therapy such as alterations to the shoe, cortisone injections to the area, orthotic devices, which are custom arch supports.

If none of these measures work, surgery is the desired course of action and is the most effective in resolving the problem.

Should you experience a dull or severe burning pain in your foot especially in the areas of the base of the toes 2, 3, 4 or 5, please feel free to contact Dr. Lee Tisa for a NO COST CONSULTATION* to discuss your condition.

Center helps persons with disabilities gain independence

by RHONDA VINZANT
Lakeland Newspapers

The doors of the Lake County Center for Independent Living were officially opened Sept. 19 in a symbolic move that will result in the unlocking of doors for many people with disabilities in Lake County.

"We will work for advocacy on the part of people with disabilities," said Scott McDonald, Executive Director. "Our goals are to educate both people with disabilities and the community about each other and help people with disabilities integrate into the community."

Curtis Robinson hopes to help other persons with disabilities gain independence as he has.

The Independent Living Center is a not-for-profit, non-residential, consumer-controlled center providing direct independent living services to disabled consumers in Lake County and working towards making Lake County a more accessible environment. Funded by the Illinois Department Of Rehabilitation Services, it is the newest of 18 centers now in operation throughout the state.

"We don't want to see persons with disabilities secluded amongst themselves," McDonald said. "We want to teach them how to use chair-lift equipped buses, how to find jobs, how to utilize handicapped accessible buildings and such. Since there was no assistance previously, there are a lot of people in the county who haven't been getting out. We have a lot of work to do in the community and we are looking forward to getting started and to helping the disabled in Lake County lead more fulfilling lives."

In addition to information and referral and the teaching of life skills, the center staff of six will also provide a peer counseling group designed to allow persons with disabilities to share their experiences providing a forum for problem solving. Also provided will be Personal Assistant Training and Recruitment, which will allow persons with disabilities to hire and manage personal assistants and housing referrals. Another product of the center according to McDonald will be the opening up of a whole new work force for Lake County. "These persons are one of the missing links in county activities," he added. "Families will be letting go of adult children for the first time and a lot of people who have been locked in to staying with relatives and being cared for are going to learn to take care of themselves. They are going to get a new perspective on life that they may have felt they could never have."

During the ribbon cutting ceremony which officially opened the doors that have been serving consumers since mid June, Mundelein Mayor Marilyn Sindles commented, "The Village of Mundelein is proud to have you here. We are standing by to help in any way possible."

For many in the audience the opening of the center was a realization of a dream. Cindy Ciano, a Round Lake Beach resident, and current director of the Fox River Valley Independent Living Center, was a forefather of the Lake County Center. Ciano had suffered polio as a 9-month old infant and had used braces and a cane for walking throughout her life. About six years ago, the active housewife, became confined to a wheelchair as the results of the late effects of polio. "When I lost my independence it caused me to change the direction of my life. I started looking around in the community for resources to help me," she said. "The closest center was the Fox River Valley Center in Elgin and they were tremendous helping me to take back my independence. They gave me hope," she added. "I started forming a group to establish a center in Lake County as nothing existed at the time. It's wonderful to see that dream fulfilled," she added with tears in her eyes.

At the opening, Cindy was presented a recognition award from the center. For the past six years, Cindy has worked with individuals to teach them independent living skills. One man that she helped was Curtis Robinson, a 29-year old man disabled four years ago as the result of a car accident. "I went through my closed sun-roof on Easter Sunday, 1987," Robinson said. "Now, I want to get out into schools and community groups and tell people that drinking and driving doesn't mix." The accident left Robinson a quadriplegic. He was living in a nursing home when Ciano came to visit and told him he could learn to live independently—he didn't have to spend the rest of his life in a nursing home. "Being in the nursing home was really hard," he said. "I was the youngest person there and I had to teach the staff how to care for a quadriplegic. I was very low. I thought I couldn't do anything right. I wondered what can I do with myself. After Cindy began visiting me it gave me so much happiness to realize that I could learn to live on my own again and that I am not alone. The center is here as a way out for people like me."

Robinson moved into his own apartment in March of 1989, after two years in nursing homes. He is a board member of the Lake County Center for Independent Living and has been since its inception. He is currently attending college and studying computers and hopes to return to his employer before the accident when he is finished. As a board member he works with other consumers to give back the hope that others have given to him. "I can't feel sorry for myself, its over and done with," he said assuredly. "Now, I try to tell others about drinking and driving and life, tomorrow is not promised to you," he added.

Scott McDonald, Executive Director of the Lake County Center for Independent Living cuts the ribbon for their grand opening, Sept. 19, along with Mundelein Mayor Marilyn Sindles and Cindy Ciano, who was one of the founders of the center.

Woman sues County Fair in July golf cart accident

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake County Fair Association is among the defendants of a lawsuit filed by an Antioch woman for injuries she and her two children suffered when a golf cart ran into them on the fairgrounds July 26.

According to the suit, filed in Circuit Court on Sept. 11, Susan L. Baird and her children, Kyle and Kathryn, were waiting in line to purchase tickets for the fair when an out-of-control golf cart ran into them.

The operator of the golf cart, James Prendergast of Ingleside, and the owner of the golf cart, E-Z-Go of Wauconda, also are named in the lawsuit, which seeks $15,000 in damages.

All three of the Bairds were seriously injured in the 11 a.m. accident, according to the suit.

Robert J. Long, the Baird's attorney, said his clients were waiting in line to buy tickets at the Gate 6 booth when Prendergast lost control of a golf cart he was attempting to park in a nearby handicapped parking space.

The golf cart leaped in the air, Long said, and landed on his clients as well as others in line. Prendergast told police that the brakes had slipped, causing the accident, Long said.

Baird's lawsuit charges Prendergast with negligent driving. The suit also charges E-Z-Go with failing to properly maintain its golf carts to prevent injury.

The Fair Association is named in the suit and charged with failing to require safety checks for vehicles used on the fairgrounds and failing to require fair patrons to provide proof of such safety checks.

CLC offers workshop on anger

Effective ways of managing anger will be discussed in "Anger Management Workshop" (GSQ 074), a three-week course offered by the College of Lake County. The sessions will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Mondays beginning Sept. 30 at Southlake Educational Center, 1860 First St., Highland Park.

Participants will learn practical skills for using anger as a tool for change rather than blaming people. They will also learn to identify and change ineffective styles of managing anger and receive suggestions for constructively handling anger in different situations.

The course fee is $25. For information and registration, call (708)433-7884.

Inquest favors homicide in Island Lake drowning

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

Lake County jurors in a coronor's inquest heard at least three hours of testimony before turning in a verdict of homicide in the Island Lake drowning of Tanya Cisek.

Cisek, 2, was swimming on Dorothy Beach at 12:50 p.m. July 18 when she began playing a dunking game with two older girls. "They were going under water and holding their breath for as long as possible. The smaller girl was imitating the older youths. When the older girls looked around, the child was floating face down in the water. The girls thought the child was still playing the game and did not realize anything was wrong," said a spokesperson with the coronor's office.

Nearly 45 minutes passed before Cisek, of 5318 N. Oak Park Ave. in Chicago, was pulled from the water without a pulse, according to an eyewitness account. Paramedics failed to revive Cisek, who was pronounced dead at 2:29 p.m. at Good Shepard Hospital in Barrington.

Island Lake resident Chris Drufke, a witness who testified at the Sept. 18 inquest, was surprised by the verdict. "I thought the most that would happen would be a finding for gross neglect," she said. "I can't believe this came back homicide, but the woman's nuts in my opinion. When the paramedics were trying to revive the kid, she just kept saying 'Jesus wanted her' and walked away. She didn't have any interest in the death. She kept saying it was the the work of the adversary," meaning the devil, Drufke said.

The matter was referred to the McHenry County State's Attorney's office where it is under investigation. Officials declined to say if the State's Attorney would prosecute.

It is alleged that Theresa Cisek, the victim's mother, is a member of a religious cult. According to Drufke, at the time of the incident, Cisek and her husband were undergoing a divorce. Tanya was the oldest of 2 children involved in a custody battle.

AB/C Council releases results of homeless survey

The Lake County Board of Health Advisory Board and Coordinating Council for Mental Health, Substance Abuse and Developmental Disabilities Services (AB/C Council) has released results of the Lake County Homeless Survey for the first six months of 1991. The survey showed an average of 285 homeless people in Lake County per month, with approximately half of those reported being children.

Figures in the survey were compiled monthly from sources representative of agencies from which homeless persons seek shelter and other assistance: Alcohol Treatment Center of the Lake County Health dept., Catholic Charities, SER/Lake County Fair Housing and Public Action to Deliver Shelter (PADS).

Between January and June, an average of 2003 nights of shelter were provided each month through Catholic Charities and PADS, with a total of 10,938 nights of shelter provided by these two organizations during that period. Approximately 15 percent of the homeless persons reported employment as a source of income. Nearly 34 percent were homeless for the first time. 49 percent were black, 37 percent white, 12 percent were Hispanic and 2 percent were of other ethnic background.

The Homeless Survey was designed by members of the Lake County Coalition for the Homeless and is now coordinated by the

AB/C Council with some financial support from the county's federal emergency shelter grant provided by HUD. The AB/C Council is an advisory board to the Lake County Board of Health with regard to mental health, substance abuse and developmental disabilities services, and provides leadership in planning and coordinating these services countywide. For more information call (708)360-6704.
